EGAN TALKS.

He Thinks Parnell the Best Tactician in England,

And That Lady Florence Dixie is a "Crank" --His Opinion of the "Hanging Judges" and Irish Trials in General.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—It was a busy day for Patrick Egan, of Dublin, late Treasurer of the National Land League. P. J. Sheridan did not leave Mr. Egan's rooms at the Grand Central Hotel until 2 o'clock in the morning. So Mr. Egan had a short night's rest. As soon as he breakfasted visitors began to flock in and letters and telegrams to arrive. Dispatches were received from Boston, Chicago, Buffalo, Cincinnati, St. Louis and many other places, containing messages of welcome and greeting. About 12:30 Egan and Sheridan left the hotel and proceeded down Broadway as far as Park place, where Mr. Sheridan left his companion at the Irish World office. Mr. Egan went on down town, where he was joined by some of his friends, but after some chatting and the payment of a few calls, he also bent his steps toward the Irish World office. In that office there was a concourse of smiling faces. There had been a slight suspicion that Mr. Egan might arrive at the time he did, but his actual arrival was like a bombshell to his friends, who have not recovered their gravity yet. When Mr. Egan arrived in New York late on Monday night the first thing he did, after registering at the hotel, was to get a directory and find the Irish World office, and Mr. Ford's house. He then proceeded to the office, and not finding Mr. Ford there at that late hour he crossed over to Brooklyn and hunted up the editor, so Patrick Ford was the first Irishman in America to shake hands with the late Treasurer on his arrival in New York. Mr. Eagan remained during the night at Mr. Ford's house, not returning to his hotel till Tuesday afternoon. To a reporter Mr. Egan chatted freely.

"It cannot interest any one how I came," he said, "I am here, having come

WITHOUT HASTE OR CONCEALMENT.

Is not that sufficient? And now, that Sheridan and I am here, I may add that Parnell will be here presently. I see by the afternoon's papers that his amendments to the land act have been defeated on the second reading, and Parnell stated to me that in the event of that happening he would accept the invitation to visit New York and attend the convention of Irish societies to be held at Philadelphia on the 25th of April. Sheridan and Ford and I will also be at that convention."

"Is your family going to follow you to New York, Mr. Egan?"

"Now, why should they do that?" said Mr. Egan smiling. "I am not going to remain in America longer than my business detains me, that is to say, about three months; at the end of that time I intend to return to Dublin."

"Can you think of no action on the part of the English Government to make you prefer a longer visit?"

"Nothing, absolutely nothing. They cannot want me; why should they?"

"Well, you do not think they will want to extradite you."

"I do not. Mr. Sheridan they wish to have extradited, because informers have mentioned his name, but no one has mentioned my name.

THERE IS NO CHARGE against me whatever, and if they want one I will be back in three months."

"Where do you go next?" "To Buffalo, to visit James Mooney, president, and Jno. J. Hynes, secretary, of the National League. Then I go to Waterbury to visit the Rev. Lawrence Walsh, treasurer of the National League and after that to Boston. My movements, however, are subject to any proceedings that may be taken in the Sheridan extradition matter, in which case I shall return to New York to give evidence in his behalf."

"Are you going to submit your Land League accounts to the Philadelphia Convention for an audit?"

"No, I have offered to do that. I have made offers to submit my accounts to an American audit, but on every occasion the Americans have absolutely refused the offer, stating that they had every confidence in the management, and that it was unnecessary to do it. I am ready still, but I don't think the offer will be accepted. All charges that have ever been made against the financial management have been made by outsiders who have never subscribed. True friends of the League have never shared in the suspicions of some I could name."

"Meaning Lady Florence Dixie?"

Mr. Egan laughed and gave a sly look.

"Do you know," he asked, "what a crank is? Lady Dixie is what you in America would call well meaning, but she don't know how. Yes, 'crank' is a very excellent term, and I am afraid in America it would be applied to that lady," and

MR. EGAN LAUGHED LOUDLY.

"What is your opinion of Mr. Parnell's reply to Forster's speech?"

"It was perfect. I have not read Forster's speech yet.

I WAS ON THE OCEAN

when it was made, and I have it in my pocket now, intending to read it at the earliest opportunity. But you may depend on it, no man in England knows how to make an answer or to make no answer; how to speak upon occasion and how upon occasion to be silent, as well as Parnell does. He is the ablest tactician in England. He has a knowledge of the rules equal to Gladstone himself and a complete mastery of proceeure. You may inquire if he has had some experience lately in all these things."

"They say that his party is not unanimous?"

"You must understand that of the fifty or sixty Home Rulers who are in the British Parliament, only from twenty-five to thirty are true men. The rest are well known in Ireland now and at the next election not one of them will be returned. The twenty-five or thirty men who are left are unanimous in their adhesion to Parnell. There has never been a split in their ranks, at least any practical split, and they look up to him now and recognize his great qualities as leader with the same heartiness as they have at the very outset."

"Do you approve of his visit to America?"

"Certainly. I don't know who will come with him; perhaps he will come alone. But he will be a success here. Parnell fail? It is impossible."

"Do you share Mr. Sheridan's opinion, that the men who have been on trial in Dublin will all be hanged?"

"Well, perhaps not. You see in the preliminary examination one hears only the prosecution. In the trial we will hear the defense. I think some of them will be able to establish alibis. If they have a fair trial, of course, they cannot be convicted. But it is too much to expect that, and a great deal, too, depends on the Judge, I am afraid Judge William O'Brien is going to try them, and he is one of the 'hanging Judges.' Perhaps my fairest statement would be that I believe the trial will be unfair, but that some of the prisoners will be able to prove their innocence."

"Is there any Judge in Ireland whom you would consider a fair Judge?"

"Yes; there is Judge Harrison. In a recent case the Crown prosecutor was most peremptory and violent in his argument, and things seemed to be going very badly against the prisoner, but Harrison was fair enough to charge in the prisoner's favor, and the result was acquittal."

LOO CHIN GOON.

A Chinese Tragedian will Start a Theater in Philadelphia.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPAIA, March 15.—Loo Chin Goon, the most famous and popular actor that ever delighted a Chinese audience in San Francisco, has arrived here. When the Chicago express train, on which he was, came into the Broad Street Station, a fat Chinaman who had for more than an hour pressed through the gates became strangely agitated. Four other Chinamen ambled out of the waiting-room and joined the fat one on the platform. They were there to receive Loo Chin Goon. So Yun Lee, who has a laundry on Girard avenue, headed the reception committee. Loo Chin Goon and Lee are cousins. When Lee and his friends saw Goon alight from the train they could hardly be prevented from rushing through the gates to welcome him. Goon is a large, powerfully built man, and wears spectacles. His dress did not differ from that of any ordinary laundryman, out for a holiday. His face brightened when he saw the quintet of Mongolians who awaited him at the gate. He kissed Lee upon the cheek and received a similar token of affection. In a half minute the others

WERE GABBLING WITH HIM

as familiarly as though they had known him for years. Having received his illustrious cousin in what he supposed was proper style, Lee removed the standing linen collar which encircled his neck. This done the party went to Lee's store where Chin supped on tea and sweet meats, and received scores of his fellow countrymen during the evening. The possession of a golden joss could not have made Lee happier than Loo Chin Goon's presence did. Before introducing a reporter to the distinguished Thespian this evening, Lee informed the visitor that "Loo Chin Goon him velly gleat sing song man." All plays or theatrical performances being "sing songers" in "pigion" English, Goon sat upon an ironing table gravely puffing a pipe and the dozen Chinamen in the room eyed him respectfully. He has a rich, full voice and speaks very fair English. In fact, his cousin declares that Goon talks English better than any one he ever knew. Lee introduced the reporter as a "chin-chin" man. Goon said he had been an actor for twenty-six years. He is now 41 years old. Thirteen years of his professional career were spent as a strolling player in China. He first became prominent at one of the annual theatrical festivals in Nanking and remained in that city until he was induced to come to America of one of the six great Chinese companies of San Francisco. His salary was $5,000 per annum and he made his first American appearance at the Jackson Street Theater. At this point he was interrupted by Lee, who served every one in the room with a cup of tea and a strip of dried sturgeon. The actor accepted the offering of fish, but declined the tea. Goon has a great regard for the drama of his native country and his glowing compliments to some of the "one hundred plays" made Lee forget himself, and emphatically say, "alle time Chinee comitee sing song bully." Goon crushed his talkative relation with a look. For three years Goon has received a percentage of the profits of the Jackson street theatre in San Francisco, but lately he has conceived the idea of starting a similar place of amusement in New York, and with that object in view he came East. He says that if he decides to open theater in New York it will be done next fall. The company will be brought from San Francisco and will consist of about a dozen people.

BY AN OFFICER

FOUND GUILTY.

Alex Johnson, a Double Murderer, Convicted by a Jury.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—There seems to be every chance for a hanging in Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, before many weeks have passed. The negro, Alex Johnson, who was charged with the murder of Henry Hicks and Emma Jackson in a shanty on Buffalo avenue, near Crow Hill, Brooklyn, on December 21, has been convicted of murder in the first degree. The evidence against him was so conclusive that his counsel made the plea in his defense that he was not of sound mind. The evidence showed he had plotted the killing of his brother, who escaped his fury by an accident, and that in his attempt to take the life of that brother he killed two persons and dangerously wounded two others. It was no surprise to those who listened to the evidence that Johnson was convicted of the gravest offense known to the law. Johnson, one-eyed and paralyzed by his attempt to commit suicide when arrested, seemed dazed at the verdict. He clutched convulsively and nervously carried a pocket handkerchief which he had in his hand, to and from his mouth. He stood up when he should have kept the seat provided for him, and sat when he should have been upon his feet. Counsel for the defense asked that the jury should be polled, and the court ordered that the request should be complied with. Then Johnson was taken to the "pen." Here he broke down, and water had to be applied to revive him. A reporter asked him how he felt under the verdict.

AT HIS CUFFS,

"First-rate," he replied.

"What do you think the result will be?"

"I suppose they'll hang me. I don't care a d——. I did not intend to kill those people."

While the reporter was talking to him he was hurried into the Black Maria, by which he was taken to Raymond Street Jail, from which it is safe to predict he will never emerge alive, save to go to and from court.

THE JUDGMENT ENTERED.

Miss Livingstone Gains Another Step in Her Damage Suit.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Some time ago Miss Mary Alice Almont Livingstone recovered in the Brooklyn Circuit Court a judgment for $75,000 against Henry Fleming, the millionaire president of an Oil Refining Company, for breach of promise of marriage. The defendant made a motion for a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, and argument upon that motion was set for hearing by Justice Pratt. Mr. De Witt, in behalf of Fleming, moved for an adjournment of argument, upon the ground that Ex-Judge Tracy, senior counsel for the defendant, was confined to his house by rheumatism. Mr. Sawyer, counsel for Miss Livingstone, said he had no desire to take advantage of the absence of counsel, but he thought the plaintiff was entitled to have the judgment she had recovered entered up, as the entry had been stayed by this oft-postponed motion. Mr. Dewitt did not see what good could result from the entering of the judgment, as Mr. Fleming was now in Europe for the benefit of his health. Mr. Sawyer thought that Fleming's death abroad might embarrass the collection of the judgment. Justice Pratt said he did not know but that counsel for the plaintiff was entitled to some order. His honor remembered that the late Martin Kalbfleisch defaulted a $50,000 breach of promise of marriage suit by his death. The court therefore granted an order for the entering of judgment, and for the $2,000 as an extra allowance for counsel for Miss Livingston, and adjourned the hearing of the motion for a new trial.

New Telegraph Company.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The certificate of incorporation and articles of association of the New York Mutual Telegraph Company have been filed in the County Clerk's office. The corporators are Wilson Godfrey, John Walker, William Yorke Atlee, George L. Ricord and David B. Waters, each of whom holds 200 shares of its capital stock, which is now $25,000, divided into 1,000 shares, but which the certificate of incorporation provides may be increased at any time by the directors of the company, by and with the consent in writing of stockholders holding and owning three-fourths in amount of the then capital stock of the association. The general route of the line or lines of telegraph of the new company is to be "from the Stock Exchange and other exchanges in the city of New York, through the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and by way of the cities above named and the cities, towns and villages lying between the same." The corporators of the company, with Chas. G. Hedge and Henry P. Johnes, are to be its directors until the first annual election, to be held on the last Tuesday of May, 1883.

Indications.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—For the South Atlantic States, partly cloudy weather with local rains, southwest shifting to colder northerly winds, stationary or higher pressure. For the Tennessee and Ohio Valleys and Lake Region, colder, clearing weather, winds mostly northerly, higher pressure. For the Mississippi and Missouri Valleys, fair weather, northerly winds becoming variable, stationary or higher temperature, followed in northern and western portion by falling barometer. The Mississippi River below Vicksburg will remain nearly stationary. Cautionary northwest signals continue at Milwaukee, St. Joseph, Ludington and Grand Haven.

Star Route Trial--Brady Cross-Examined by Bliss--Folger's Health -- Appointments--Missouri Matters--Political.

Star Route Trial.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The Criminal Court room was well-filled this morning when General Brady resumed his testimony. Referring to the testimony already given in regard to the Redding Alluras Route, witness said he had no means of knowing of the mail being carried in shorter time than the schedule before the order for expedition was made. It would have made no difference, however, he said, because the contractor could not have been forced to carry it on a short schedule without extra compensation. With regard to the Mineral Park Pioche Route witness said they had been very desirous of running a daily mail to connect with the Southern Pacific. It would have been a good thing if the route had been properly worked, but it was not, and witness cut it down to a weekly service. Representations were made that great damage had been done the contractors and upon renewed promises to render good service, it was restored to tri-weekly service, but witness refused to restore the daily service. Touching the question of a monthly extra pay, witness said it was a universal rule to allow that compensation to a contractor when the service was discontinued. The law required a new offices where established by the First Assistant Postmaster-General after consultation with the Second Assistant as to cost of service. In some instances, however, the order was made by the First Assistant without consulting the Second, who was therefore bound to put on the service. Witness described the origin of the mail bill system, and said he did not write to a postmaster ordering him to discontinue their use, nor did he believe anysuch letter was ever sent from thedepartment. He never knew the chief of the inspecting division. Mr. Lake, to omit to report to him any delinquency on the part of contractors. Lake had a microscopic vision in these matters. He was the father of the present inspection system and had been accused of undue severity by the contractors after seeking to have him removed. Wilson renewed his questions of yesterday in regard to collusion with the defendants to defraud the Government, which was denied in the most positive terms. This concluded the direct examination and

BLISS BEGAN THE CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Bliss asked how much salary witness received in his position as Inspector of Internal Revenue. One objection was made and Bliss explained that he wanted to show that witness had gone into the postal service in only moderate circumstances. The court refused to allow the inquiry. Witness then told how the cases of increase and expedition were made up during his administration. A statement of revenue was not always shown by the packets. If the request appeared reasonable he signed his name to the order.

"Do you mean to say you did not consider the revenue?" inquired Bliss.

The witness said it depended altogether on the circumstances. When they were building up the service in the South and restoring the broken down service after the war, small attention was paid to the revenue. It was not even considered in every case. In '77 the appropriations were divided up between the railways star, and steamboat service. This was only achieved after persistent efforts, and was regarded as a victory for the star and steamboat service, over the railroads. Bliss referred to witness' statement that he had not always available appropriations to carry out his plans. Witness said that was the case in the fiscal years '79--'80. Bliss asked why witness had not increased the service from Kearney to Kent to six trips instead of expediting at greater cost. Witness referred to the official papers, and said the petitions requested expedition as well as increase. It was frequently the case that people were more anxious to have a fast than a frequent mail. Did not now remember the case in question, and did not know whether he had considered the saving that would have been made by increasing instead of expediting the route. When asked if he had considered the revenues, witness replied that was poof criterion of the value of the service. It only showed sale of stamps and not the amount of mail passing over the route. Senator Saunders and Representative Valentine wanted service badly, and that was the reason for granting it. He could not tell what weight had been attached to the petition. Mr. Bliss inquired why expedition or increase had not been allowed in every case. Witness answered that possibly Representatives or Senators were not all sufficiently in earnest. Then again they had not means to grant all sequests.

Bliss—"You distributed the plums,"

The witness further explained that on some days he was more liberally inclined than on others. When he was not in an "increasing" mood, Bliss "That was imperative mood, was it not."

Witness "It was imperative in many things. Senator Teller and others had asked for an increase and expedition on the White river Rawlins route. They asked expedition because the fast tri-weekly service was much better than the slow service seven times a week and anybody can see that without a microscope," said the witness.

Bliss remarked that Senator Teller had not asked for expedition to forty-five hours. Witness presumed that when the fourse was expedited the object was to get faster, "Just as I had a right to do under the law, without reference to the Senators or petitions," continued witness.

Bliss produced a letter in this connection asking a five-day schedule, andinquired why a forty-five-hour schedule had been allowed. The witness answered that he had no means of knowing whether the days spoken of meant twelve or twenty-four hours. Attention was not always paid to the recommendations of Postmasters, because they often had personal motives. The inqury into the schedule upon this route was pushed to some length. Witness said he did not know that the expedited schedule would result in bringing the mail to Rawlins two hours too late to connect with other mails. He did not believe such was the case; or, if it was, it has been a mistake of correspondi ng clerk whose duty it was to look after such things with particularity. The schedule was only fixed by second assistont pro forma. The peculiarity of the St. Charles Greenhorn route was next inquired into, the testimony being technical in character and relating to corrections and errors in advertisements and schedules. The route from Trinidad to Madison was next taken up and thoroughly examined. Raton has been put on the route, witness said, to give it direct communication with the country seat.

"It looks in that case as if I have done as I pleased about it," said witness.

"Yes," asserted Bliss.

Hill and Hazen.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Charges against Supervising Architect Hill have been filed at the Treasury Department, and are now in the hands of Secretary Folger. Their nature is not yet made public, but it is said on good authority they relate to contracts and expenditures for the new Government building at Philadelphia. This matter is said to be assuming a serious shape and the charges recently filed are not in the nature of repetition of old stories.

It is rumored to-day that Gen. Terry may be selected President of the Hazen court of inquiry, with two colonels from the Staff Bureau of the War Department.

ASSISTANT TREASURER.

The President to-day appointed A. W. Wyman, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, to be Treasurer, vice Jas. Gilfillan, whose resignation has been accepted, to take effect on the first prox. Mr. Wyman will secure his bond and quality by that time. He was almost overwhelmed with congratulations this afternoon.

The Bank Cases.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The case of the United States against James H. Britton and E. S. Curtis, president and cashier of the National Bank of Missouri, charged wich fictitious entries and fraudulent reports of the bank for the purpose of defrauding the Government,as charged by the grand jury in 1876, is being heard in the Supreme Court to-day. Assistant Attorney-Gederal Morey appears for the Government and John M. Glover, George H. Shields and Chester H. Krum for defendants.

POST-OFFICE.

No action on post-offices yet. Van Horn was at the Post-office Department to-day in consultation with officials there. The general impression is the President had not yet determined what to do in the matter. He may then offer the place to Fuley, though it appears he has not applied for it.

Bureau of Printing.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—It is understood Secretary Folger tendered the position of Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to John M. Corning, Geneva, New York, at one time Sergeant-Arms of the Legislature of New York, and that he has accepted the appointment. Secretary Folger is reported better to-day. His improvement is slight, however, and it is feared his recovery will be slow. He took cold Monday, and is now suffering from sore throat.

A BATTLE FOR LIFE.

New England Alarmed at the Competition of the North and West.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Times, discussing the new railroad problem, says. "The sub-committee of the dry goods merchants, who recently petitioned for a re-classification for domestics, which are now shipped as first-class freight, met in consultation at Commissioner Fink's office yesterday with representatives of the Trunk line road. Among the merchants present were Messrs. C. N. Bliss, L. G. Woodhouse, Wm. D. Farwell, of this city, and Mr. Green, of Green, Boyce & Co., of Columbus, Ohio. The merchants stated what changes they desired in classification, the argument in favor of these changes being based on the fact that, with the existing rates, they are unable to compete in Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis and other centers for the Northwestern trade with the Southern manufacturers who have now centered in that market as active and formidable competitors. The only relief the houses in this city can see is a reduction of the classification of domestics and the consequent reduction in freight rates. Their requests were listened to and they were assured that they should be given the most careful consideration. The question on the surface seems a simple one, and the suggestion of the merchants plausible as a means of affording them relief. In reality the question is one of the most formidable as well as delicate the traffic managers of the railroads have been called upon to consider. It goes far beyond the question of freight rates. It is a question of the future existence of the great cotton industries to the New England States. It is a battle for life by these manufactories against their offsprings in the South. The transportation of these domestics to the West is a very large source of income to the trunk lines, and therefore it is to their manifest interest to foster the business and prevent all possible encroachments upon it in the markets of the West. They find the young blood of the Southern manufacturers and the railroads foemen such as they have never heretofore been called upon to meet. During the past few years New England heads and hands, with ample capital had gone South, and their looms and spindles, on the ground where the cotton is grown, have begun on an extensive scale the manufacture of sheetings and shirtings of quality in no way inferior to the New England product. These goods can be laid down in St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville and other centers at a less price than the New England manufacturers can afford. The Southerner is nearer the Western trade centers and so can reach the consumers at less cost for freight than the New England. He then also, he deals direct with the consumer when New England in accordance with time-honored precedent deals through a commission house in this city. The New England manufacturers have discussed a proposition to take their business out of the hands of commission merchants of this and other eastern cities and dealing as Southern competitors do, direct with the consumers. Their agents would, however, cost them as much as their commissions to the houses in this city, and they find the initial freight handicap and freight rates after the manufacture staring them in the face. How, then, to maintain their supremacy in the markets of the West is the question to solve. How to keep their business in domestics and their Western trade in their hands is the aim of the commission houses. Just here the freight rate looms up as a possible relief and hence the petition for reclassification and lower rates. The railroad interest here enters as another factor in the trying problem. If the railroads of the East reduce classifications of domestics and those lower freight rates, it would certainly afford the relief, provided the Southern roads did not also reduce their classification and lower their rates.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

Willow Trees as Nuisances—Chaplains—Proceedings as To-Day's Session.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., March 15.—The first special order for this morning in the Senate was the committee bill in regard to roads and bridges in counties under township organization, to repeal an act and parts of acts therein named. This is one of the most important bills yet considered, as it contemplates many almost radical changes in the existing laws and has occupied the attention of the Committee on Roads, Highways and Bridges for weeks past. The bill, among other things, declares that willow trees are an enemy to draintiling, for the reason that the roots of the willow seek water, while the roots of other trees shun water. Many Senators seemed ignorant of the fact and thought it willows were a nuisance other trees must necessarily be so. But the revelation of scientific facts by one of the grangers effectually silenced them. The bill is long, containing eighty-seven sections, and nine sections additional. The consideration was by section, and three hours were consumed on the first eight sections, when under the rules Senator Conder moved to reconsider the vote by which Merritt's bill, regulating the liabilities of insurance companies, passed. The motion was made the special order for Tuesday morning. Rules were suspended for the purpose of considering the House bill for appropriating $50,000 for the sufferers in Shawneetown, which was passed. She Senate was still in session at 12:55, with no prospect for immediate adjournment.

THE HOUSE.

The work in the House during most of the morning session was the routine of reports of committees, reading bills, presentation of petitions and resolutions. On motion of Mr. West Hons. Hoskinson, of Franklin and Symonds, of Clay, were added to the Committee on Highways and Bridges in order to represent the southern part of the State. Members Scurlock, of Adams, and Thompson, of Cass, were also added. Mr. Quinn made a formidable speech in favor of the minority report on his bill providing for the appointment of a Roman Catholic priest to give religious instructions, moral and spiritual comfort to inmates of that belief in the penitentiaries, charitable and reformatory institutions. The discussion brought every member to his feet, and was participated in by Messrs. Ewing, Coates, O'Mara, Murray of Sangamon, Yancy and O'Connell. A resolution was offered to give free access to all denominations and to repeal the authority to appoint chaplains. This was opposed strongly by Mr. Morrison, and the House adjourned.

Whisky Firm's Troubles.

CINCINNATI, March 15.—The wholesale firm of Pfirmann & Pfan,having failed to meet two drafts of $5,000 each, placed their affairs in the hands of Thomas G. Smith and A. S. Winslow, trustees, and ask an extension of time. The liabilities are estimated at $425,000, 60 per cent of which is secured by whisky stock. J. Pfan, Jr., sold his interest in the firm March 2d to Mr. Pfirman, who is sole manager of the firm. There is no apprehension the liabilities will be not all met and business be continued.

Mr. Preirman says no trustees have been appointed to take charge of his affairs, though the persons named were suggested by certain creditors. He will call a meeting of the creditors Saturday, and will consent to the appointment of an advisory committee, but prefers to hold control of his business. He says he is amply able to pay every dollar, but wants time. The firm's surplus above liabilities he says is $500,000, and his personal estate $175,000. He has been in business twenty-five years, has never before been embarrassed and could have avoided this by selling below the market, but had such implicit confidence in the passage of the Sherman bill by the House that he refused to sacrifice his goods. No step is taken by any creditors to compel an assignment, the general feeling being that all claims are safe.

Mrs. Parnell Welcomes.

NEW YORK, March 15.—A large number of personal political friends called to see Patrick Egan to-day, among others being his cousin, Rev. Mr. Egan, of Tarrytown, New York. Many letters of welcome to this country has been received by Egan from prominent Land Leaguers in all parts of the United States. One of these letters was from Mrs. Parnell, in which she most warmly welcomes him and says: "I hope your visit to America will be the means of uniting all the strength and intelligence of the Irish race in a solid and harmonious movement for a daily, continual and practical advance of the Irish nation towards its right and ultimate place and sphere of active freedom and prosperity."

FOREIGN NEWS.

France.

PARIS, March 15.—On a motion being announced in the Chamber of Deputies to authorize the prosecution of Savary, member of the Chamber and director of the Rhone et Loire Bank, for malversation in connection with the affairs of the bank, Savary prevented the necessity of debating the motion by resigning his seat.

AN ANARCHIST ORGAN.

PARIS, March 15—The Government will prosecute the anarchist organ, The Citoyen.

ANARCHISTS ATTACKING ROCHEFORT.

PARIS, March 15.—Fifteen anarchists visited the office of the Intransigeant and attempted to compel Henri Rochefort, the euitor to insert a note in the paper denouncing its report of the riot last Friday as slanderous. The police have since protected the premises although Rochefort declined their services when offered.

EXPLOSIVES

have been found in the house of a man named Pouget, who has been arrested. It is expected that information touching the doings of the Anarchists more vital than any Louise Michel could furnish will be obtained from him. The Government has resolved to expel, upon the completion of their sentences, all foreigners who were convicted of implication in the riot here. They are mostly Germans.

Germany.

BADEN BADEN, March 15—The funeral of the late Prince Gortschakoff took place from the Russian Chapel here yesterdyv. The physician who attended Prince Gortschakoff states there were enough grounds for suspecting that the Prince had been poisoned. The evidence of the Prince's mistress and his valet confirms the suspicion. In the will he made on his death-bed the Prince requests the authorities to suppress any inquirv as to whether he had been poisoned.

England.

LONDON, March 15.—The annual boat race between the crews from Cambridge and Oxford Universities takes place on the Thames at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The course will be from Putney to Mortlake, a distance of four miles and two furlongs.

OXFORD WINS.

LONDON, March 15.—Oxford won the boat race by a length.

The boats started at 5:41. Cambridge had the Middlesex side of the river, Oxford the Surrey side. Oxford led by a length at Dukeshead, a short distance from the starting point, and won by 3 lengths.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, March 15.—The Catholic clergy of the diocese of Swineford, county Mayo, passed a resolution in which they charge the Government with neglecting the distressed people and condemn the remedies offered, namely: Workhouse or emigration.

Russia.

VIENNA, March 15.—The Russian Government has proposed to the other powers that an international detective force be organized to cope with the anarchists, Nihilists, Fenians and Socialists. France, Switzerland and Austria have acquiesced in the proposal.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

Proceedings in the Senate and House To-Day—Appropriations Passed.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 15.—The high license bill is still the subject of much discussion. When it is offered for signature in the House Moran and McGinness will protest, and the fatal defect in the engrossment of section 5442 will then be pointed out. The defeat of the Jones militia bill in the House last night, while quite discouraging, does not render the case hopeless. It was only beaten by a few votes, and when the Senate $20,000 bill comes in it has a good show of passing. The best thing the House has done this morning was to pass the Senate bill to appropriete $100,000 for the extension of the State University.

The Cook Prohibition resolution was reported back from the Committee on Constitutional Amendments with an unfavorable recommendation, and it was then sarcastically referred to the Committee on Unfinished Business. In the Senate W. H. Swift's water-works bill was defeated. It only got five votes. Beard and the Sedalia capitol moving crowd beat the bill. Kent's deposition bill was ordered to engrossment. The Lander's Supreme Court-house bill, as it left the House, was reported favorably. The labor statistics bill was ordered to engrossment as it came from the committee. It is now a new bill, and while preserving the usefulness of the bureau it is made perfectly satisfactory to the manufacturers. The registration bill will come up in the Senate to-morrow. There is much agitation over the reported loss of the Police Commissioner bill. It cannot be found high or low.

A CONTEMPTIBLE LIAR.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 15.—When the St. Louis papers came up to-day Lieut.-Gov. Campbell found a paragraph in the Globe-Democrat in which Gen. Grant, A. Adkins, the Coal Oil Inspector, was represented as having accused the Lieutenant-Governor of having suppressed an important document in behalf of the coa oil bill. The Lieutenant-Governor promptly hunted up the Coal Oil Inspector and charged him with having made the statement. Adkins denied it. "A dozen gentlemen have told me," said Lieut.-Gov. Campbell, "that you did make such a statement, so nothing is left for me except to say that you are a contemptible liar." Aukins walked away, and the Lieutenant Governor reentered the hotel.

The Wabash Problem.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The proposed leasing of the Wabash to the Missouri Pacific or Iron Mountain is creating some discussion here. Business men are surprised that Mr. Gould, who regards the Southwestern system among the best railroad properties in the United States, should consent to the addition of less renumerative lines. It is said he is not satisfied with the management of the Wabash and looks to the new method as a way to improve it. Russell Sage says the scheme is likely to be carried out in April.

Rhode Island Republicans.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 15.—The Republican State Convention met to-day, every town represented. Aug. Obern, of Bristol, was nominated for Governor by acclamation. O. J. Rathnurn Woonsocket nominated for Lieut.-Governor, the present incumbents were nominated to complete the State ticket, viz.: Joshua M. Addenas, Sec'y of State; S. Pl Colt, Attorney General; Samuel Clark, General Treasury.

By Fire.

BALTIMORE, March 15.—A fire last night in the eastern limits of the city in Baltimore county destroyed the Phosphate Works of Bowen & Co., with contents, including 1,000 tons of phosphate, ten tons of sulphur and sixty tons of acid. The damage is estimated at $180,000 on buildings and machinery, and $30,000 on stock. Partially insured.

Notable Wedding.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Mayor Edison this morning united in marriage at the City Hall Elsie McHenry Train, youngest son of George Francis Train, to Miss Eliza Willing Brown, step-daughter of the late Charles E. Thorn, actor.

Municipal Nominations.

CINCINNATI, March 15.—The Republican Convention this afternoon nominated L. L. Sadler for Mayor, on the second ballot, and Judge Worthington for the Superior Court, by acclimation.

An Old Steamboatman.

MEMPHIS, March 15.—Capt. W. H. C. Williams, probably the oldest steamboatman living, is dead, and was buried to-day.

SERGEANT BALLANTINE.

What He Thinks About America, Polygamy, Mrs. Laugtry, Etc.

Sergeant Ballantine, the English barrister, and his friend and traveling companion, Mr. Stuart Downing, of the London Land and Water, arrived in the city last night from their trip to the far West, en route for New York. A card from the POST-DISPATCH reporter was answered with a prompt invitation to come up. The reporter expected to meet the Sergeant, but on entering the apartment he found Mr. Downing only, who presented the Sergeant's excuses, and said he was very much fatigued by his long journey, was worn out by loss of sleep, half-starved by the atrocious hotel fare, and bored nearly to death by persistent reporters. "He must have rest, you know," said Mr. Downing, "and he cannot be disturbed, but I will be glad to give you our impressions of America as near as I can. I may say that the accommodations in the hotels are simply atrocious. We were nearly starved at Salt Lake City, and, in fact, have found little fit to eat anywhere according to our notions, but I am agreeably surprised at the Lindell, and must say that we have found excellent fare here; but the water, that is simply horrible!" With this Mr. Downing filled a glass from the hydrant and gazed at it with disgust bordering on nausea. The Sergeant, you see, is viewing your institutions from a legal point of view and I am viewing the social and political side. I am writing my impressions of it now to London papers, but the Sergeant and myself will go straight to London and will seek some retired spot and will write our impressions of the country for publication in book form. I may say that the Sergeant is very much pleased with

THE FREEDOM YOUR JUDGES ENJOY

on the equity side of the Court. They have a freedom in such decisions unknown in England. We have just come from Salt Lake City and have been devoting ourselves to the study of the Mormon question. I enjoyed exceptional privileges to view the inside lives of the Mormons, and especially the polygamous phase of the problem. As far as I can judge polygamy does not tend to degrade or to make the people immoral. The women seem pure and contented, and neither men nor women are deteriorating physically. I saw some charming ladies and beautiful children among the polygamist families. I may say that it is Sergeant Ballantine's opinion that the Edmunds bill will be inoperative and void because it is opposed to the Constitution and principles of the United States Government. I say now, don't misrepresent us and put things in the Sergeant's and my mouth, as many reporters have done. We were calumniated in a most beastly manner at Chicago as to what we said about Mrs. Langtry. We both have a high opinion of Mrs. Langtry and do not think she has done more than commit a slight faux pas, and we honor her for not admitting it." Mr. Downing said he had viewed St. Louis by night and was delighted with it. Just then Sergeant Ballantine entered from the barber shop, but the reporter could only get a shrug of his shoulders from him as he disappeared in an inner apartment and called for writing materials. Counselor Garvey's card followed the Sergeant and the reporter withdrew. The Sergeant and his friend will view St. Louis to-day and depart by special car for New York to-morrow.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS—ONLY 10 CENTS FOR 20 WORDS.

THE DELINQUENTS.

Those Who Do Not Pay Their Subscriptions Will be Published.

Unless the subscriptions to the Exposition fund are sent in much more lively for the next two days than to-day, the necessary fifty per cent for organization will not be in the treasurer's hands Saturday night. The committee met this morning and decided to publish no more subscriptions received for a few days. The number of subscribers not paid up is comparatively small, but is sufficient to indefinitely postpone the organization unless half their respective amounts are paid. A list of the delinquents will be published to-night and will probably be given to the press.

To-day's receipts, in round numbers, represents only $3,500, making the total amount received nearly $213,000.

The Southwestern Pool.

The special meeting of the Southwestern Railway Association convened again in session at the Southern Hotel this morning, having adjourned ast evening after holding two sessions during the day and accomplishing nothing. The meeting was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning, and remained in session until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The meeting was strictly a close one, but it is learned from Commissioner Midgely that the new line to Kansas City will be closed. The line thus going out of business, in lieu of so doing is to receive a certain money consideration, payable monthly, amount not stated. This agreement was finally acceded to by the Southwestern Association and the roads comprising the new line with the provision that it is to last indefinitely, subject only to a sixty days' notice from either contracting party. "Everything," said Mr. Midgely, "is restored to the former condition, and is now just the same as prior to March 1. All embargoes put on either the Gulf or the 'Frisco have been withdrawn by the Association. They have returned with a like compliment, and now matters stand just as they were prior to March 1, except that we pay the 'Frisco and Gulf Roads a certain amount monthly for discontinuing their Kansas City line. The amount we do pay them I am not at liberty to give."

Registration of Elevator Receipts.

The following announcement was made to the members of the Merchant's Exchange to-day:

To the Merchant's Exchange — Gentlemen: I will assume the duties of warehouse register of grain on Saturday morning, March 17, at 7 o'clock. Supervisors at that time and date will be placed in each elevator and the registration of warehouse receipts will be made on Monday, March 19, at my office after 8 o'clock a. m. All holders of warehouse receipts dated on or prior to March 16, 1883, will please present them for registration as soon as possible as all receipts to be regular must be registered on or before April 2, 1883. A charge will be made on receipts dated on or before March 16, 1883.

By order Board of Directors Merchant's Exchange.

McLean vs. Broadhead.

The double-barreled notarial inquiro, Richey and Carr, relative to the McLean-Broadhead contest was resumed this morning in the McLean Building. Register Berg brought down the ballot boxes from the City Hall but stated that he officially had nothing to do with the opening of the boxes and did not recognize it.

A steamboat hand, named Cash, who runs on the river between Memphis and New Orleans, a portion of the year testified that he offered to vote for McLean, but was refused.

Notary Richey opened the ballot box of precinct 34, Third Ward. He read out one Independent ticket voted for McLean attached to the regular string. The examination of the rejected ballots of precinct 156, Fifteenth Ward, showed but four Independent tickets, two for McLean and two for Broadhead. The examination proceeds very slow ly.

Reconstruction Ordinances Approved.

Acting Mayor Parker this morning approved the following ordinances: To reconstruct Elm street from the wharf to Fourth street; to reconstruct Franklin avenue from Broadway to Front street; to reconstruct Almond street from the wharf to First street; to reconstruct Fourth street from Poplar street to Elm street; to reconstruct Sixth street from Market to Locust streets; to reconstruct Fifth street from Poplar street to Clark avenue; to reconstruct Sixth street to Franklin avenue; to reconstruct Second street from Chestnut to Pine street.

New Litigation.

The following notable suits figure on the Circuit Court new record to-day:

Jenny Benton vs. Thomas Benton, divorce; failure to support, infidelity, etc.

Chas. W. Whitney vs. St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railroad Company, suit for $25,000 damages; switchman thrown between cars.

J. C. W. Hacking vs. R. G. Hacking, divorce; cruel treatment and failure to provide.

All new cases must be filed by Saturday evening.

The Marriage Record.

The following marriage licenses were granted this morning: John C. Fisher and Ida E. Brinkmeyer; Frederick Burke and Louisa Fisher; Nathan F. Williams and Victoria Steffy; Henry J. Volkening and Annie Heublein; Henry Bagenmeier and Annie Meier; Lewis Vallie and Mary Dorom; Geo. Emerich and Lizzie Lilich.

Arrested.

John C. Beaucleigh, alias Boquet, was arrested to-day by Detectives Lawler and Desmond. It is supposed that Boquet is wanted at Detroit, Michigan, on a charge of beating a man out of $2,000. When searched he had $43 and seven bogus checks in his possession.

THE ROSY CROSS.

A Reporter Who Unwillingly Became a Rosicrucian.

The Local Branch of This Mysterious Order--Its Rites and the Manner in Which a Candidate is Initiated.

The presence in this city of a lady who professes to be a member of the Order of the Rosy Cross—that mystic and, to some, mythical organization founded upon the correlation and interdependence of the material and spiritual elements in nature, of the body and soul in animal life, and the predestined predominance of the true, good and beautiful when the millenial dawn is at hand—brought to the ears of a POST-DISPATCH reporter the statement of the fact that a branch of the dark order was flourishing here with a large and respectable membership. By investigating the matter the reporter succeeded in obtaining possession of sufficient information to warrant him in visiting a gentleman accused of membership in the society, and questioning him concerning the brotherhood. The gentleman, who is prominent in legal circles and remarkable for the soulfulness of his mustache and the epic grandeur of his figure as well as the correctness of his quotations from the works of Avon's bard, not only confessed his complicity in the Rosicrucian mysteries that are cherished here, but offered to introduce the reporter to the charmed inner circles and give him a single but comparatively commonplace peep at the extraordinary rites and wonderful visions presented in

THE SECRET CHAMBER OF THE SOCIETY

in this city. Last night was the time set for the introduction, and the reporters were on hand at the trysting place. So was the phantom-chasing lawyer. As the chimes of McLean's clock tolled midnight and awakened the slumberers in the adjacent hotels from their first sleep, the reporter and his mystic friend were sailing westward on a slow and dilapidated Market street car. Near Twenty-ninth street the two debouched into a lane leading to a three-story boarding-house, on the second floor of which the lawyer found a room-door, at which he gently knocked. The door was quickly opened and the pair entered. As the door closed a tall figure in an Oxford hat and a long flowing robe of white material, ornamented with colored birds, beasts and astronomical objects, was revealed to view. Extending his right hand, he took the same member of the lawyer, and there was a series of motions up and down and all around, such as they describe in the songs about Miss Brady's piano-forte, during which the robed individual remarked:

"Welcome, Knight and brother, from the world of the Finite to the realms of the Infinite, the Illimitable and Unknowable."

The lawyer took the figure aside and held a whispered consultation which resulted in the doorkeeper, or sergeant-at-arms, or whatever he was, coming towards the reporter, grasping his hand, shaking it the manner in which the lawyer's had been shaken, and then, after greeting him with the words already printed above, making him to don the neophyte's robe and prepare for admission to the room for secret work. There was nothing remarkable or mysterious in the appearance of this room. It was an ordinary apartment furnished neatly but not expensively, and the only article in the place that seemed to have the strange talk and surprising actions of the long-robed individual was a chest or trunk in one corner from which he lifted a pure white gown, which he threw over the reporter's head. This prepared the candidate—if all John Tilley, broker-at-law, W. D. Ryder, ex-treasurer of the People's Street Railroad Company, and J. W. Lake. The money was taken from the Third National Bank. Some of these transactions were conducted without the knowledge of the parties named. In 1881 Owen says that he got on the wrong side of the market and his losses footed up $30,000. He thus accounts in his own way for about $180,000 of the total defalcation of $1,22,000. It is not known yet what effect this testimony will have upon the defense set up by the teller's bondsmen. The trial will not be reached until the April term.

THE OWEN DEPOSITION.

It is Subuitted to Judge Treat for Perusal To-day.

The Owen depositions were submitted this morning in chambers of the United States Court to Judge Treat. The District Attorney and the attorneys representing the Third National Bank were present. The suits of the bank against Owen's bondsmen were filed in the Circuit Court, but Judge Treat, before passing sentence on Saturday, expressed a desire to see the reports of Owen's testimony and judge for himself whether the defaulting teller had made any reparation by disclosing whence the stolen money had drifted. The ponderous volume 351 of closely written pages covering nearly two weeks' examination, was submitted to the Judge, who said that he would hear from counsel a synopsis of the testimony. It was explained to him, with the view of saving an exhaustive perusal. The sentence will be passed on Saturday morning. The minimum punishment fixed by law is five years' imprisonment and the maximum is ten years. Owen having entered the plea of guilty, he will probably receive a sentence of six or seven years. The depositions will be filed in the Circuit Court as soon as they leave the Federal chambers. A brief synopsis may be given as follows: Owen testifies that he commenced to do business in butter and cheese in 1875 in the name of Owen & Co. His father was supposed to be the leading member of the firm, but in reality he was the financial mainspring of the concern. He advanced money from time to time until the aggregate reached $150,000. This was all money stolen from the Third National Bank. The account of Owen & Co. was kept at the Valley National Bank, but he cashed checks for the firm over the counter of the Third National. He never presented those checks. The investment proved a loss. There was a large misappropriation of the funds put into the butter and cheese business through the operations of the bookkeeper, C. E. Block. Large sums were drawn out for the living expenses of the Owen family, father, son and father-in-law. The profits of the business at the best of times were only meagre, and the withdrawals exceeded the receipts each year. In 1880 Owen took a speculative turn in corn, wheat, corn, oats and lard. The deals were conducted through brokers in the names of other parties—J. Cook, employe of Owen & Co.; W. C. Douglass, the ex-paying teller of the Third National Bank of St. Louis; John Tilley, broker-at-law, W. D. Ryder, ex-treasurer of the People's Street Railroad Company, and J. W. Lake. The money was taken from the Third National Bank. Some of these transactions were conducted without the knowledge of the parties named. In 1881 Owen says that he got on the wrong side of the market and his losses footed up $30,000. He thus accounts in his own way for about $180,000 of the total defalcation of $1,22,000. It is not known yet what effect this testimony will have upon the defense set up by the teller's bondsmen. The trial will not be reached until the April term.

ABOUT TOWN.

WM. LEWIS died without medical attendance ast night at No. 817 Christy avenue.

THE firemen at Engine House No. 6 were busy to-day constructing a new floor for the house.

THE defense in the Rickert murder trial opened their side of the case in the Criminal Court this afternoon.

SECRETARY SMITH received a telegram from Mayor Ewing this morning announcing that the return of the inter from Vincennes, Ind., would be deferred until next week.

THE brick dwelling-house which Mr. C. E. Soest is building on the west side of Armstrong avenue, between Hickory street and Chouteau avenue, is estimated to cost $3,375.

A TWO-STORY frame stable in the rear of 2424 Carondelet avenue was almost destroyed by fire yesterday evening about 7:12. The building was owned and occupied by A. Roeslein. The entire upper portion of the building was burned. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CHIEF CAMPBELL says that the published statement in a morning paper that the department has refused an escort on St. Patrick's Day for the parade, is untrue. An escort of twelve men and one sergeant has been provided. All officers belonging to any society will be permitted to participate in the parade.

A SPLENDID crayon portrait of John McCullough, the actor, in Thonssen's window on Olive street, is attracting the attention of passers-by. It represents the "old Roman" in his favorite character of "Virginius." The picture was made by Will De Ford, the talented crayon artist, and is the property of the Elks Club.

COMPLAINTS have reached the city health authorities to the effect that the operations of the St. Louis Heat and Power Furnishing Company at their works on Seventeenth street and Clark avenue are the occasion of numerous foul smells throughout the neighborhood. The complaints are being investigated by the Sanitary Inspectors.

IT was reported down town to-day that Mr. Frank T. Igiehart, who has been a patient at St. Luke's Hospital for some time past, had grown suddenly worse, and that his recovery was pronounced. A telephone message was received from the hospital at the POST-DISPATCH office, at 2:30 o'clock, which stated that Mr. Igiehart, so far from being dangerously sick, is doing quite well.

A GRAND entertainment is promised by Pride of St. Louis Lodge, K. and L. of H., for Wednesday evening, at the Pickwick, to consist of music and recitations by some of the best artists in the city. Misses Schofield, Schuler, Russell and other ladies are to take part, with Prof. Haulter and Messrs. McDowell, Gus Thomas, Cooper and others assisting. Gus Thomas is a host in himself, and all of the others are equally good in their parts. Admission will be entirely by complimentary ticket, and those who are favored may consider themselves highly fortunate, as this promises to be the best entertainment of the season.

PROF. E. S. BENDER, the well-known teacher of "Art Magique," was the victim of a very painful accident last evening. He was preparing to attend the regular Wednesday reception of the "Albany" dancing school, and had occasion to carry a light across his room, when the lamp exploded, lacerating and burning his hands in a shocking manner, and blistering his face and scorching his hair and moustache. Dr. Fields attended to his injuries, from which it will take the professor some time to recover. This accident will, of course, compel Mr. Bender to cancel a number of engagements, but it is to be hoped that no permanent injury will result.

CITY PERSONALS.

Mr. Chas. Sterns, treasurer of Protection Lodge, No. 19, K. & L. of H., was presented with a beautiful gold-mounted cane last evening as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the entire lodge.

Miss Bessie Otoo, the talented elocutionist and dramatic reader, left last evening for Kansas City to fulfil professional engagements. She will return in a couple of weeks, and will then devote herself to the preparation of her programme for a performance at the Pickwick the latter part of April.

Miss Mary Hogan arrived from San Francisco this morning. She is delighted with her stage experience and has made great advances in her profession. The press generally has criticised her efforts most favorably. Miss Hogan is in love with San Francisco, but returned home on account of her mother's health, which has recently been much impaired by her brother's death. She will probably remain some time in the city.

Corporation Elections.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the St. Louis Ore and Steel Company was held to-day and the following directors were elected: Thos Dickson, Robt. M. Olyphant, LeGrand B. Cannon, David Dows, R. S. Grant, Solon Humphreys, Henry G. Marquand, Jas. A. Burden, Cornelius K. Garrison, of New York; Carlos S. Greeley, Chas. P. Chouteau, D. K. Ferguson, E. A. Hitchcock. The new board will meet for organization in a few days.

The Markets.

FORENOON SESSION.

The change to colder weather was the cause for a jump up in the price of grain this morning, this advance being aided by something of a change in the governing influences that heretofore have been so bearish. The dullness and weakness that have been so prominent in European cables were not visible to-day, though an early cable to private parties stated that wheat was quiet, with no change for an improvement owing to heavy imports, but later private cables reported a better tone as prevalent. The most strength in this country was shown in New York, where good parties were reported as buying actively, while the shorts were made up principally of scalpers. The demand there was said to be in excess of offerings, which were growing smaller, and there were said to be more buyers and sellers. The improved cables and the fact that exporters were buying aided greatly toward the strength in New York. In Chicago, on the contrary, and with all the advance, there was no great strength shown, and private advices from that market seemed to indicate that no confidence was felt in the higher prices. The heavy buying of yesterday was said to be chiefly for a scalp, and that there was no good in that market while this wheat was held there for sale at and fair advance. A good many reports of damage to winter wheat were received by different firms in St. Louis, coming from Illinois and Missouri principally. As a sample the following from Fayette, Mo., is given: "Our farmers here now all concede that wheat is seriously damaged. I have talked with numbers of them who did not think so two weeks ago, but now say that under the most favorable conditions we will not have more than one-half crop in our county as compared with last year." However, these reports failed to influence the markets to any extent. There was an advance in grain, but the feeling was very unsettled in wheat and corn, and prices fluctuated within a contracted range until late; then there was a strong advance and at the close wheat was 1¼@1½c higher, and corn ⅛@1c above yesterday's close. Oats were strong all through and had few sellers, so that at the close the market was up 1c. The cash grain market was higher, though outside of No. 2 mixed corn did not gain much in price. Wheat was in small supply and demand and oats sold fairly on order account. No. 2 mixed corn met an active demand, mainly for shipment, but the other grades were rather slow.

Corn—Receipts 710 sks, 152,900 bu. No. 2 mixed 52⅛@52¼ regular; March 52⅜; April 53¾@⅞ to 54⅛@¼, closing at 54⅛ bid; May 55⅞ to 56⅝; June 56½ to 56⅝, closing at 57 bid; July 57⅞ to 58¼@⅜, closing at 58 bid; No. 2 white-mixed 54¼ in C.; rejected do 50 bid for C., 50½ for St. L.; new do 52 in E., 52¼ bid this side; new mixed 49⅝@39¼ in St. L., 49¼ in C., 49⅝@49½ E. side; rejected 47 in A., 47@47¾ in E., 48½ in C.; no-grade 44 bid for St. L.

Oats—Receipts 158 sks, 7,200 bu. No. 2 42½ in U., 43 in A. and C., 43½ in St. L.; March 43 bid; April 43¼ bid; May 48⅛ to 44⅝; rejected 43 in E. and bid for St. L.

Rye—Receipts —— sks, 550 bu. There was an advance in No. 2, it selling in C. at 58, and fully worth ½c more on the east side, but rejected was entirely neglected.

Barley—Receipts —— sks, 1,200 bu. Quiet and steady. We quote: Rejected at 45@50; No. 3 55@60; prime to strictly prime 62½@57½; choice 70@72½; fancy 75@80.

Flour—Receipts 5,559 brls. Trade, although quiet, and, in fact, verging on dullness, was, nevertheless, unchanged in price, quotations being about steady at the figures given below. The market was almost bare of choice, while family and fancy were also in very limited offerings, and, the demand being principally for these grades, business was, in consequence light. We quote: Extra fancy $5 50@5 60; fancy $5 35@5 45; choice $5 20@5 25; family $4 65@4 80; xxx $4 15@4 35; xx $3 55@3 70; x $3 15@3 30; superfine $3 00@3 10; fine $2 85@2 95; favorite brands 25c higher; patents $6@6 75.

Cornmeal—Unchanged at $2 70@2 75, according to size of order; grits, pearl meal and hominy at $3 60@3 75.

Rye Flour—Firm and unchanged at $3 90@4 10.

Millfeed—declined, and was dull and weak; sacked bran selling at 83 f. o. b., 80 E. track, and 79 at mill; bulk at 73 this and E. side.

Hay—Receipts, 190 tons; market was overstocked and dead dull. In anticipation of large orders local dealers some time ago stocked up with hay until a very large amount was in store here. The overflow in the South stopped the demand from that section, and now dealers find a heavy stock on their hands, and little call for it. In consequence of this they are very slow to purchase and pick around for the most desirable offerings, and when they do purchase anything below fancy they only pay low down prices. This side—Prairie $7@8 for prime to strictly prime; $8 50@9 for choice to fancy; common to choice clover mixed $6@10; timothy $10@10 50 for prime; $11@11 50 for strictly prime; $13@14 for choice; $15 for fancy. East track—Mixed $6 50@11; timothy $10@12 for prime to choice; $13@14 for fancy.

Provisions—Receipts 232,330 lbs meats, 24,175 lbs lard. Outside advices are generally very favorable now, and infuse a good deal of confidence in local operators. M. S. Nichols & Co., of Chicago, writes to John F. Morgan: "Provisions are shaping rather strong. Foreign markets on meats and lard hold solid, and there is a fair shipping demand, and liberal speculative demand for all products." The home market was stiff to-day and advancing in price, but still rather quiet, owing mainly to the firmness of holders. Standard mess pork jobbed at $18 25@18 37½; on call cash offered at $18 87½, bid $18; March at $18 32¼, bid $18 15; April at $18 50, bid $18 27½; May at $18 65, bid $18 45; June at $18 80, bid $18 50. Prime steam lard was offered on call at 11⅜ and was worth on the market 11.15. Loose dry salt was held at 7.30 for shoulders, 9.85 for longs, 9.95 for c'ribs, and 10.20 for short clear, and sales were on this basis; longs up-country for May sold at 9.70, freight 23. Packed bacon longs sold at 10⅝@10.70, c'ribs at 10.85 and short clear at 11⅛; loose longs at 10¼@10.55. Hams 11¾@13½. Tallow 8⅛ for choice cake and for prime in oil brls; falling off lots and irregular pkgs 7½@¾; grease tallow 7. Breakfast bacon 12@13½. Grease 5¾@6½ for brown, 7@7¾ for yellow, 8@9 for white. Beef—Extra mess $12@16 per brl according to brand; $7 50@8 50 per half brl; dried 12½@13¾, strictly choice 16 per pound. Fresh smoked tongues $4 50@5 per doz. Salt—Domestic $1 20 this side $1 15 on E. side per brl. Ground alum $1 15 per sack for round lots, $1 20@1 25 in a small way.

Highwines—Local market unchanged and quiet at $1 15; sales 152 brls. Cincinnati firm at $1 14; Chicago $1 17; Peoria steady at $1 15.

Lead—No offerings on the market except refined and that can be purchased at $4 27½. Hard is worth fully that much. Spelter dull at $4 30.

Grass Seeds—Millets are still dull at 50@90 for German and 35@60 for common. Sales 1 car German at 82½, 155 sks do at 75 and 170 sks common at 40; timothy weak and lower at $1 40@1 60. Sale 1 car at $1 60 and 115 sks p. t.; red-top about steady at 40@75; sale of 100 sks at 55. Hungary euiet at 55@85. Clover steady but quiet at $7 75@8 25. Sale 5 sks at $8 20.

Flaxseed—In demand and scarce; sale 1 car pure at $1 28.

Hempseed—Very strong, but little arriving; worth $1 60.

Castor Beans—Strong, with $1 70 freely offered for prime, and would readily bring that figure if offered.

Afternoon Board—2 to 3 P. M.

ST. LOUIS.

Wheat—Higher. March $1 09⅞ b.; April $1 11⅝ b.; May $1 13⅝ to $1 14, closing at $1 13⅞@1 14; June $1 13⅝ to $1 13⅞; July $1 08; year $1 05 to $1 05⅛.

Corn—Cetter. March 53@53⅛ b.; April 54⅜; May 56⅝ to 57, closing at 56⅞ b.; June 57 b.; July 58⅜ b.

Oats—Weaker. March 43 b.; April 43¼ b.; May 44½ to 44⅝.

Cotton.

At last we are enabled to note a change in the market for spot cotton, and one that is favorable, New York being steady at 1-16 advance, middlings 10¼, with sales of 774 bales. Locally there was no change the market being quiet and steady at the revised quotations. The movement was fair, sales amounting to 791 bales. New Orleans and Liverpool were also unchanged quotably but improved in tone. The former was firm with middlings 9 11-16, and the latter reported a fair demand which was freely met at quotations. The different future markets exhibited but little change, opening higher, but soon falling off, a feature which has characterized them for some little time. At Liverpool the opening was in buyers' favor and closed barely steady at last evening's close for all except April, May and June, which were slightly better. New York opened dull at a point up, advanced another point, then fell off, closing one to two points lower. New Orleans, on the contrary, opened lower by a point and showed indications of a much lower range at the close.

LOCAL SPOT QUOTATIONS.

Low ordinary, 6¼; ordinary, 7¼; good ordinary, 8¼; low middling, 9; midding, 9 9-16; good middling, 10⅛; middling fair, 10⅝. Stained—Ordinary, 7; good ordinary, 8; low middling, 8½; middling 8⅞.

LIVERPOOL.

Uplands 5⅝d; Orleans 5 11-16d. Sales 12,000. Futures closed barely steady. March and April ——; April and May 5 43-64d.; May and June 5 46-64d; June and July 5 49-64d.; July and August 5 53-64d; August and September 5 56-64d.; September and October ——; October and November 5 49-64d; November and December 5 46-64d.

Leaf Tobacco.

From Harker & Pritchard's Merchants' Exchange Price Current.

The tobacco manufacturers of St. Louis are all possessed of thin blood; consequently the light snow-storm of this morning, which was accompanied by stiff winds, kept the majority of the buyers indoors. The attendance being light at the breaks, there was no life shown. At the Evans warehouse the entire break was passed for want of bids, and at the Planters' only a few hhds changed hands. Sales were: 1 hhd light weight lugs at $3 40; 2 leafy lugs at $4; 5 low to medium dark burley leaf at $5 10@5 60; 1 do at $6. Passed: 3 hhds Virginia wrappers and 2 old burleys, and bids rejected on 1 hhd nondescript leaf at $3 40; 3 old short leaf at $4@4 80; 3 good do do at $5@5 60.

We quote, nominally: Lugs—Common to good dark and red $4@4 50, do colory and burley $4@5. Leaf—Common to medium dark and red $6@6 50; good to fine do $8@9 50; common to medium colory and burley $6@11; good to fine do $13@18. Factory dried—Short $6@6 75, medium $7@8 50, good $9@10, choice $11@13. Wrappers—Common $15@20, medium to good $25@40, choice to fancy $45@65. Trashy, light weight and damaged sell 25@50c less than above.

REVENUE VOUCHERS CASHED.

It is announced from Washington that Congress failed to make an appropriation for the payment of the Rebate of Tax on Tobacco, Cigars, etc., to which dealers will become entitled May 1st on the stock then in hand. This rebate cannot, therefore, be paid until an appropriation is made by Congress next winter. We take this early opportunity of announcing that we will accept from dealers such vouchers, when properly certified and transferred, at ninety cents on the dollar, and will credit them as cash in payment of Cigars and Tobacco bought from us.

CATTLE—The demand at the opening this morning was fairly active for butchers' stuff especially, and a strong market under moderate supply was the result. Fresh arrivals were small, but there was quite a number left over from yesterday, notwithstanding the large movement. Buyers for Eastern shipment, although present, had not commenced purchasing, but prospects were encouraging for a good day's business in this line at yesterday's figures, which are about 25c off from last week's prices. In butchers' cattle the reduction was not so great, and the strong prices prevailing at the opening this morning means a shade advance, that is to say, about 5c per 100 lbs. The movement up to 11 a. m. was very satisfactory, but wite one or two exceptions made in butchers' cattle. Quotations were strong at the following:

HOGS—The somewhat limited supply and good demand on shipping and speculative account caused a strong and higher market, light hogs showing the effects by an advance of 5c to 10c which was maintained during the day. Heavy grades, although no higher, were strong, and fully up to yesterday's figures, the offerings, however, being small. To shippers who as usual took most of the supply sales were made at a range of $7 25@7 65, the outside price being for a bunch of heavies averaging over 300 lbs. Other transactions were in a speculative way at $7 05@7 70. At these figures the arrivals were soon disposed of, not on account of any special briskness, but owing to the small number on sale, which amounted to only forty odd car-loads. Values were very strong at 11 a. m. at the following: Light to choice York hogs $7 35@7 45; mixed to good packing $7 35@7 50; butchers to extra $7 60@7 75; skips and culls $6@6 70.

THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1883.

AMEND the DOWNING bill and remove all doubt as to its application to St. Louis.

THIS blizzard comes in good season to harden the streets for the DIAZ reception.

IT is really unfortunate that the Governor hasn't the power to prorogue and disperse this worthless Legislature.

THE excitement over the approaching elections is not rising to fever heat. What St. Louis wants is to offer a chromo to each voter.

DOES the DOWNING bill introduce high license in St. Louis? To cull a phrase from the vocabulary of sunny Andalusia, "Quien sabe?"

NOT content with its æsthetic triumphs, Cincinnati is now setting up a claim to the possession of muddier streets than St. Louis. This is absurd.

THE question which is puzzling the mind of General DIAZ just now is whether he is coming to St. Louis as the guest of the Merchants' Exchange or of the Knights of St. Patrick.

EX-GOV. SPRAGUE is reviving too rapidly. To be married and nominated for Governor, even by an Independent party, all in the same fortnight, is too much glory for one bibulous man.

ST. LOUIS is tolerably well supplied with elevated railways at present. There is scarcely a street car track in the city that isn't elevated from six to eight inches above the level of the thoroughfare.

WE are told that BISMARCK is buying land in Mexico to settle colonies of German emigrants on. We shall believe this story when we see BISMARCK relaxing his grip on the first German subject who is available for military service.

SHEA, the slayer of Officer DORAN, escapes again. The officer who went to Washington City to induce him to return to St. Louis was not provided with the formality of a requisition, and pending the proceedings Mr. SHEA walked off.

EIGHT members of an Illinois legislative committee who visited St. Louis last week went away leaving their hotel bills hanging up behind them. It will be a cold day when any Legislature in this country enacts a law to impede the process known as "hotel beating."

UNDER the DOWNING law it is claimed that the professional drunkard will find his occupation quite as remunerative and much less laborious than that of the plumber or the ice man. As Mr. GAGE puts it, "A good drunkard in the family would be equal to a gold mine."

A NUMBER of the hotel proprietors of St. Louis express great surprise that the bill to suppress hotel-beats should have been beaten in the Missouri House yesterday, after passing the Senate. They oughtn't to be the least bit surprised. A great many legislators are on that thing themselves.

NO DOUBT Governor BUTLER is a great and good man, and we are even willing to admit that he is the only genuine patriot in Massachusetts, but we are already weary, just a trifle weary of the semi-weekly announcement that he "has thrown another bombshell into the camp" of somebody or another. The war is over and bombshells are out of style.

IT was very kind in the Knights of St. Patrick to allow the Merchants' Exchange nearly all of Friday afternoon in which to show General DIAZ the commerce, industries, manufactures and other business features of St. Louis. But as it is he will probably carry away the impression that the chief industry of St. Louis consists of walking in a procession.

OUR classical fellow-townsman, W. H. H. RUSSELL, who is pushing an investigation into Florida with a view to locating the Fountain of Youth which Colonel PONCE DE LEON failed to find, has met JAY GOULD at Palatka and has been favorably impressed with his simplicity, his unpretentious manners and his democratic modes of life. Mr. GOULD is careful not to offend and irritate the surly public more than is absolutely necessary. It is to be hoped that Mr. RUSSELL will get back to St. Louis in time for the banquet of the Knights of St. Patrick.

FOR such a trifling matter as an indictment for murder committed outside of the District of Columbia, the District authorities refuse to surrender a criminal without a requisition, and refuse to hold him until a requisition is obtained. We do not know how it suits the residents of the District to have their territory turned into an Alsatia where escaping cut-throats and gallows-birds from all the country may get rest and wind and take a fresh start in their escape from justice, but perhaps they think that a District which endures the corrupting and demoralizing influences of the National Government can not be made worse by further admixture of wickedness.

THE WATER QUESTION.

DR. LEETE, our popular townsman, whose battle against the bells has won him the sweet regard of the people, has flung his castor into the arena and proposes to compel by law the measurement of every drop of water which the people use. With some official documents, which have the scent of the City Hall about them, and which abound in watery eloquence, he has enriched the columns of the morning papers with wails touching the waste of water.

Now, Dr. LEETE, quoting from the official reports of Mr. WHITMAN and the Moguls of the City Hall, declares "that more than 50 per cent of the water pumped out of the river runs back into the river without having been put to any use whatever." In short, the water-takers are charged with wasting, without any use, fifty per cent of the water. The reports of the Water Commissioner repeat this every year.

But it is not true. It is false. It is a misleading statement. Mr. WHITMAN knows that it cannot be true. Whether it is made to cover any defect and deficiency in the pumps, as Mr. PEEL hints, or whether made to force the expensive water meter system upon us, the fact remains that it is not true. This we shall show.

The Assessor of Water Rates says, in his report of 1881, that the authorized daily consumption was over fifteen millions of gallons, and that the leakage of mains, etc., which no meter can prevent, amounts to nearly five millions daily; and that the public buildings, engine-houses, police stations, hospitals, asylums and fountains and all public use of water amounted to nearly three million gallons daily in 1881, and that there was an actual wastage of less than two millions of gallons per day. By this showing the people paid for sixty per cent of the water pumped, the leakage was twenty per cent, the public use of water was some twelve per cent. This leaves some eight per cent that is willfully or negligently wasted, for the total daily amount pumped was in 1880 only 24,350,000 gallons. These facts stamp with absurdity and recklessness the statement that the people waste more than half of the water.

The people ought to know that twenty per cent of the waste charged to them consists of leakage of the mains; that at the present time the city uses for public service not less than 4,000,000 gallons of water daily, which is some fifteen per cent of all the water that ever reaches the service pipes. And this accounts for thirty-five per cent of the alleged fifty per cent waste. Add five per cent for burst pipes and for cleansing the pipes, and for use by the water-carts and Fire Department, and only ten per cent remains as willful and negligent waste.

We have given no fair estimate of the immense amount of water used by the Fire Department, nor have we added the millions of gallons which were used to wash away the mud of the old reservoir, "forty feet deep." In doing this Mr. Whitman succeeded in washing the filth upon the lands and lots of citizens who have appealed to the courts for damages, of $3,000 in each case, done by this remarkable bit of engineering.

Let the people and the Council and delegates remember that in one year 145 leaks in the mains were discovered and repaired, and that they are charged with all the water thus lost. Why? Because the Moguls and certain parties want the meters introduced.

We have been dallying with the reports of the Water Commissioner, and find that he says it costs $18 37 to pump one million gallons. This being an official statement, we accept it. But this same Water Commissioner in his recent letter to the Mayor, says that it only cost $30 to pump 3,250,000 gallons, or about $9 per million gallons. In the letter he was defending his ice contracts. So when Mr. WHITMAN pumps for ice it costs only half as much as when he pumps for the use of the people. Mr. WHITMAN knows better than this. Why try to mislead the people? We lose our confidence when we begin to look into this Water works business.

A good many responsible citizens are thinking that a thorough investigation would do no harm.

A PLAIN CASE.

Interest in the forthcoming decision of First Comptroller LAWRENCE in regard to Congressman OCHILTREE'S salary is heightened by the fact that said decision may affect the salaries of President ARTHUR, Senator-elect CULLOM, ex-Senator WINDOM and others who are indebted to the United States as bondsmen for defaulting officials. In the case of OCHILTREE it is possible to raise the question whether the compensation allowed by law to a member of Congress can be garnisheed by a creditor or be withheld even by the Government itself on account of arrears due from said member. Sec. 6, Art. 1 of the Constitution clearly provides that "The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States." As the same section further provides for their exemption from arrest while attending the sessions, it may be urged that this section was intended to secure the freedom of the member from want or imprisonment during his term of service, and that, therefore, it is unconstitutional to deprive him of compensation during his term on any account whatever. This seems to be a far-fetched argument for the protection of Treasury robbers, rather than for the fortification of free representation in Congress. The compensation "ascertained by law" in OCHILTREE'S case is the usual salary and mileage, less whatever sum he owes the Government. The same law-making power which fixed the salary had just as much power to provide and did by law provide that "No money shall be paid any person for his compensation who is in arrears to the United States until he has accounted for and paid into the Treasury all sums for which he may be liable." If the Congressional privilege does not exempt a member of Congress from the operation of this law there certainly is no constitutional provision or principle of public policy which can exempt others. If President ARTHUR or any one else can draw a salary from the Treasury while the United States holds an unsatisfied judgment against him, either as principal or surety, then it is impossible for Congress to control the national purse-strings or to protect the Treasury from pillage by the Executive Department.

A BILL TO VETO.

That HEARD Bill which the Legislature has passed in spite of the earnest protests of a minority, comes to us in a very questionable shape. It is avowedly enacted to authorize the recognition and payment by the State of war claims which the U. S. Government refuses to recognize or pay until the State shall have first acknowledged and paid them as debts justly due from her to the claimants. This seems to be even worse than the purport of the act of March 19th, 1874, under which the great CRAFTON Militia Claims fraud assumed such proportions that Adjutant-General CRAFTON became a fugitive from justice, and a clause was inserted in the present State Constitution providing that "The General Assembly shall have no power to make any appropriation of money, or issue any bonds or other evidences of indebtedness for the payment, on account of, or in recognition of any claims audited, or that may hereafter be audited, by virtue of an act entitled 'An act to audit and adjust the war debt of the State,' approved March 19, 1874, or any act of a similar nature, until after the claims so audited shall have been presented to and paid by the Government of the United States to the State of Missouri." The plain purport of this is to forbid the recognition or payment by the State of Missouri of any war claims previous to their recognition and payment by the United States. As the United States refuses to pay any but claims which the State shall have allowed and paid, the HEARD bill must either prove a successful evasion of the Constitution or become inoperative and void by reason of conflict with the Constitution. On its face it looks to a layman like an attempt to rehabilitate and carry out the old CRAFTON robbery, which was nipped in the bud by a storm of public indignation. If Gov. CRITTENDEN would save his administration from the disgrace which will attach for all time to WOODSON'S, he will veto this bill. The legislation of this State has once too often lent its approval to schemes of fraud based on those ancient and bogus war claims.

THE DOWNING BILL.

We are quite willing to believe that when, in his high license bill, Mr. DOWNING omitted all mention of the cities which are not in counties, he intended to include such cities, but we still stick to our opinion that the bill will not be enforced in the cities in which it is most needed without serious delay and trouble.

Mr. GAGE, of Kansas City, who is quite as good authority as can be cited anywhere, is firm in his opinion that the bill does not apply to Kansas City. In St. Louis the enforcement of the bill lies in the hands of the Municipal Assembly, and if the Municipal Assembly should happen to adopt the idea that they are not a County Court, the friends of high license will have very hard work to compel them to act under the law. It does not follow, because the Municipal Assembly has discharged the functions of a County Court in carrying out the present license law, that it would assume those functions to carry out legislation to which it is openly opposed.

There is only one thing to be done. High license is demanded by every good interest of the State, and the Legislature has recognized this by passing the bill now under notice. As there is reasonable doubt of its application to St. Louis and Kansas City, let it be amended so as to apply to these cities, and let us secure high license without a lawsuit.

WE resume to-day our observations touching the Justices' Courts in St. Louis. Next to Crowner's quest law there is no law which is so marvelous as that which emanates from the so-called Justices' Courts. These magistrates, as a rule, are thought, like Verges, to be "most senseless and fit men" for their business, and it is seldom that one is found who is not seconded by his "most desartless man to be constable." The travesties on justice which are carried on daily in these alleged courts are enough to excite the lachrymal glands of the gods. They are combinations of ignorance, knavery and petty tyranny, and no self-respecting community should endure them. It is probably too late to expect reformation at the hands of this Legislature, but what is needed is the abolition of these Justices' Courts and the substitution of three courts having jurisdiction in minor cases, holding daily sessions the same as the Court of Criminal Correction. The Judges of these Courts might be paid decent salaries and they might sit together certain days in each month to decide questions of law, appeals, etc. In this way the petty litigation of the city would be kept from clogging the upper courts, and tax-payers would have some assurance of fair treatment when summoned "to show cause." Let a vigorous war be kept up against the "Dogberrys" until a public sentiment is created which will sweep them out of power.

THE rural members of the Missouri House slaughtered last night the Senate bill making a paltry appropriation for the benefit of the militia companies of the State, out of a feeling of revenge against the St. Louis members who had voted against same road and wolf-scalp bills supposed to be dear to the agricultural heart. A self-respecting man ought to feel himself disgraced in wearing a uniform and carrying a musket in a State as mean and penurious as Missouri, and we wouldn't blame the local military organizations if they should incontinently disband. However, here in St. Louis we have large property interests to be guarded and cared for, and military companies are an actual necessity. We presume the city will be able to maintain and care for the organizations already in existence.

THE residents in the neighborhood of Lafayette Park are not the only ones who have a right to protest against the erection of a vitriol factory near their houses. The city has an interest in the matter, as it would hardly consent to having one of the most beautiful parks in the world destroyed merely for the sake of permitting a few capitalists to make a slight profit by maintaining a nuisance. Under no circumstances has the city a right to permit nuisances to be established; no industry has any right to start in the heart of the city when its establishment causes a damage to the property of others. We have had so many illustrations of this sort of thing in St. Louis that there is no excuse for a repetition of the experience. The vitriol factory should be "nipped in the bud."

ONE of the unsettled questions of the age is the right of the male Dude and of the female giddy thing to carry on sweet converse in the theater, jarring the harmony of the music on the stage or making strange interludes in the players' lines. In a New York theater this week a gentleman who mildly remonstrated with a talking fiend was told he would have his head punched, and before the authorities the fiend upheld his right to prevent everybody from hearing the play, and the question is unsettled. It ought to be settled in St. Louis, and the best way to settle it is with a club.

THE Republican did not feel called on to contribute anything directly to the DIAZ entertainment. The Republican is not exactly in a condition to contribute to any thing, but in its modest little way it has done its best to start a quarrel on an occasion which otherwise was suggestive only of good will and friendship, by making an abusive assault on ex-Minister FOSTER, who arrived in St. Louis this morning, and whose only business in St. Louis is to appear as the personal representative of the President of the United States in welcoming Gen. DIAZ. The good taste of the Republican is in keeping with its good temper.

THE Republican cites the authority of Col. BROADHEAD in support of the opinion that the high license bill applies to St. Louis, and refers to "the Scheme and Charter which Col. BROADHEAD had a hand in drawing up." Our recollection is that the first fee taken by Col. BROADHEAD after the adoption of the Scheme and Charter was in a case in which he was retained to prove the Scheme and Charter void.

IT has been deemed inexpedient at Jefferson City to attempt to elect a Public Printer at this late day of the session. It will make the great Democratic party feel very badly for the next two years to know that there is no organ-grinder at Jefferson City fattening his Democracy at the State Treasury, but perhaps the old thing will survive.

THE NEW YORK PRESS.

What the Journals of the Metropolis are Saying Editorially To-Day.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Sun says: "In the next Senate, after the New Hampshire Legislature shall have elected a successor to Mr. Rollins in June, the Republicans will have a majority of two, Mahone and Riddleberger. The two Virginia repudiators will serve as assistant Republicans, but this margin is too narrow for any experiments in legislation. The recent votes on the tariff demonstrate that the West will insist on reduction and reforms. The war of factions has not ceased. It is suspended temporarily because Congress has adjourned. But there is no truce and there is no probability of harmony being restored."

THE HERALD.

The Herald says: "Now that the defense have put Brady on the stand they can not stop here Dorsey's evidence will have a more direct bearing than Brady's on Rerdell's testimony, and since Dorsey's exhibition of mental vigor and physical strength his infirmity can no longer be pleaded as an excuse for his not taking the witness stand."

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "Mr. Egan cannot expect that the explanation he gives of the expenditures of the money is going to satisfy the public. His only reply to Lady Florence Dixie's charge is that she is the 'mouth-piece of Richard Pigott.' She has denied this already, and her word is fully as good as his. But even without her denial his answer is no answer at all."

THE TIMES,

speaking of Governor Sprague's nomination, says: "There is really no Independent party in Rhode Island, but the Democrats, seeing how successful eccentricity was in Massachusetts last year in the nomination of Gen. Butler, have apparently decided to make a sensational nomination by putting up Mr. Sprague."

Answers to Correspondents.

EVA A.—Maggie Mitchell was born and raised in New York. She is of Scotch parentage. She is married and has two children. Lotta was born in California.

READER—Mr. Barrett's repertory is not announced yet, but he will play "Richelieu," "David Garrick" and his new piece, "Francesca di Rimini."

John McCullough may play another week in St. Louis this season, but no date has yet been arranged.

STAKEHOLDER—Mr. Frost was not elected over Sessinghaus, but he received the certificate, and in the pool-rooms and among betting men the money goes with the certificate.

PERSONAL POINTS.

—General Sheridan will publish shortly his story of the surrender of Lee.

—Wiggins came in like a lion and went out like a dog with a tin-can appendix.

—Scores of colored persons, frightened by Wiggins, joined the church in Denver.

—No man can eat a bigger slice of his own wedding cake than the good David Davis.

—If the knot was securely tied yesterday, Mrs. David Davis can defy the worst of Wiggins' storms to blow her away.

—Miss Verona Baldwin, the assailant of "Lucky" Baldwin, of bonanza notoriety, is too ill to appear in court to answer the charge of attempt to murder.

—Morrison Heady, the blind and deaf Kentucky poet, has been visiting New Orleans and astonishing his acquaintances there by his extraordinary skill as a chess player.

—Capt. Walter Clifford, of the Seventh Infantry, who died a few days ago at Fort Bridger, Wyoming, in 1864 escaped from Libby Prison seven times and was recaptured every time.

—Marshal Bazaine, the prop of Maximilian's Mexican Government, spent several years in a circus, traveling through many countries, until at last, tired of his nomadic life, he went to Africa and enlisted in the foreign legion.

—Mr. George Augustus Sala relates how a housemaid who went away in a hurry left behind her in her flight an unfinished letter which began: "The Mistris hear is a Tartar, an' it's nothin' but jore, jore, jore from mornin' till nite."

—One of the reasons why the manager of a theater near New York will not pay Lester Wallack $750, claimed to be due him for playing "Rosedale," is that the receipts fell off because Wallack, while playing on the stage, tried to open flirtations with ladies in the audience.

—Mr. Jefferson, the actor, went into a bank in New York recently to get a check cashed. The cautious clerk refused to pay out the money, saying that Mr. Jefferson must be identified, whereupon the actor leaned back against a post, with that peculiar forsaken air of the returned sleeper, and said, sadly, in the words of Rip: "If my fog Schneider was here he would know me." The check was paid.

—Tabor sent to a reporter on the evening of his latest wedding the following description of the bride: "She is considered the handsomest woman in the world—with golden hair, large, full, deep, saphyr-blue eyes; full, red, Cupid mouth, with a set of dazzling teeth. One of her principal beauties is her camellie complexion, with cheeks of delicate pink flush. A little above medium height. Beautiful, plump figure, with magnificent neck and arms, and a large, round throat—feet and hands being small and very delicately shaped."

OUR MAIL POUCH.

A Defense of Emperor William.

ST. LOUIS, MO., March 14, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It has been the subject of rather severe strictures on the part of some journals that the donation for the relief of American flood sufferers by the German Emperor was made for the special benefit of those of German nationality, and that the graceful appreciation by his Majesty of American generosity on like occasions has been marred by the condition placed on the distribution of the gift. It is suggested that that potentate unwisely failed to think twice in thus acting, else he would not have done as he did, but we can not help entertaining the opinion that the editor who launched said paragraph upon the columns of his paper failed to think even once. Was he foolish enough to consider the cable as reliable on all occasions, and more particularly an accurate chronicler of the deeds of foreign potentates? A moment's reflection should have convinced anybody that the venerable Germanemperor never did or ever intended to so offend the American public and that while the gift in itself was not large, it must be borne in mind that the charity and benevolence of heads of States are continually drawn upon from all imaginable quarters, while their means and revenue are certainly not unlimited. Ungenerous as such literary aspersions and misrepresentations are, I will pursue them no further than saying that, if the Court of Berlin were incapable to act with tact and correctness in a matter so simple, it would not be unreasonable to ask by what means it achieved those brilliant results of statesmanship and diplomacy for which its rule will forever adorn history. Trouble About a Postmaster.

GLASGOW, MO., March 13, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I think it not amiss to give you a full history of our recent excitement in regard to the appointment of a new Postmaster for Glasgow. J. F. Cunningham, our late postmaster, sent in his resignation, to take effect March 1, he having accepted the cashiership of the Howard County Bank. It was generally understood and pretty much an accepted fact that Mr. M. Lehman would get the appointment, he being one of the trusted and reliable Republicans and a very competent man to fill the office to the entire satisfaction of the citizens generally both Democrats and Republicans, and it was generally thought he would have a clear field and a walk-over.

But he was mistaken. A young man hailing from Kansas City, one who never voted in Glasgow so I have been told, backed up by some dark hand who put in his application got the appointment. This said not a single Republican signed his petition. And the 401 Republicans who voted for Garfield and Arthur in 1880 were completely ignored and Monte Lehman given the go-by by a stranger from Kansas City, Mo.

I have nothing to say against Mr. Dewey. He is a young man of good manners and reputation, but we feel that Glasgow should have been heard in this matter, and the Republican party has had injustice done them in not having a voice in the selection of a Postmaster out of their own fold. A citizen of Glasgow should have been appointed beyond a doubt. HOWARD.

Remarks Concerning Great Britain.

ST. LOUIS, MO., March 14, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your reply to "Native" yesterday you could not find a good word to say for John Bull, and refused to answer "Native's" question. I will not trouble you with a rebuttal of your testimony. Your hatred of everything English appears in all you write concerning them, while you publish news impartially, which includes matters creditable to that people as well as others. Your candor is manifest in all topics but one. That has to you but one side—its worst side. You know your opinions are looked for by a million eyes. Please do not throw the dust of your prejudices into them. J. K.

[We try to be impartial in dealing with the English. We speak our opinions fearlessly about American institutions, American customs and American citizens, and nobody says a word. As soon as we rasp the Scotch, the English or the Germans a little there is a fine commotion in the foreign quarter. There are many things to admire in the English. Their internal home system is first-class. Their foreign policy is indefensible, save upon the theory that might makes right.—ED. P.-D.]

A Historic Gun.

ST. LOUIS, March 14, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am told by a gentleman who claims to know that at Palmyra is one of the two guns which the Confederate or State troops used against the Union forces in what was called the battle of Monroe, in July or August, 1861. The gun was cast at Hannibal, and was taken thence by the Confederates, secreted at Palmyra and taken to Monroe on the day of the fight. It would seem that some means should be taken to preserve this historic piece and I ask space enough to call the attention of any ex-Confederate society to the facts as stated to me. I add that I was a Union man from the first, helped defend the college at Monroe against the rebels, served all through the war and did. I hope, one man's work to suppress the rebellion, but I wish the rebels to collect and preserve every relic, trophy or memento of the struggle, in order that those who come later may have a realizing sense of what it actually was. * * *

The Story of a Bank Check.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Will you kindly answer, to the best of your knowledge, the following, and oblige a subscriber: A has $500 in bank and draws a check for B for it. B keeps the check and doesn't present it. There are no other checks out at all; in fact, this check is intended as a legacy. A, in the meantime, dies. Now comes the important part of the question. Can this check be contested in any way, or the bank withhold payment of the check? SUBSCRIBER.

[A check drawn on a bank is at all times regarded as a payment made for value received. It is good as long as there is money in the bank to meet it, unless the drawer of the check stops the payment. In the case that you speak of, the creditors of the deceased individualy would have an interest in all belonging to his estate. If there were no creditors your check would certainly be good if the bank held the money.—ED. P.-D.]

Shakspeare's Name.

ST. LOUIS, March 14, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Thanks for your very kind answer in respect to Shakspeare's name. Knowing you to be well posted on all known literary curiosities, I now feel no hesitation giving what I think an original idea of my own on the derivation of Shakspeare's name. I consider it to be of Norman origin. Supposing such the case, the only French words that could suggestively present themselves would be "Jacques père," meaning in English "Jack's father," and I see nothing improbable or anything against the genius of the English language in calling a man "Jacques père" in proper distinction from "Jacques fils," the English of which latter is "Jackson." If my claim to this originality meets with your approbation I know of no newspaper in which rather than in yours, I should like to see myself "in print."

Very respectfully,

OUR "JEDGES."

Sample Specimens of the Trickery of "Cast-Iron" Juries.

A Foreman and the Letter He Wrote to a Bank President—Constables as "Go-Betweens" for Ward Politicians—Other Strange and Amusing Stories of Justices' Justice.

That the crusade on the Justices of the Peace meets with popular approbation there can be no doubt. Merchants and business men were met in dozens this morning, who denounced these Brummagen "Jedges," and hoped that everything would be done for the abolition of the system by which such judicial officers were foisted upon the public. Lawyers of any prominence are most unanimous in the statement that all the methods of legislation in these courts are a travesty on justice. "You might as well play seven up to decide your case," said a well known ex-Judge "as to bring it before any of these Justices that I know. A man can tell something about the probable outcome of a game of cards, but it is impossible to ever make a guess at what the average Justice will do."

"And the juries?"

"Oh, if you are unfortunate enough to have a jury, then the Lord help you! You have fallen in among the Philistines without a doubt."

These "cast-iron" juries and the methods of their selection are the principal causes of complaint. In the first place, all the Constables are men of political influence among the ward bummers, and are often bigger men than the "Judges" themselves. It is their ability to do political dirty work that secures them their positions. The Constables are the go-betweens for the better class of candidates and the lower and more degraded class of voters. They hold these letters in the leash all the time, ready to pack a primary or vote on whatever side they are ordered at an election. Droves of these fellows are at the beck of almost any constable in the city. On election days you see them ragged and dirty, peddling ballots and doing the other odd jobs which are ordered. When there is no political excitement these workers must be looked after. And they are. They form the material for the juries which are the judges of the law and the facts in trials before Justices. A man who was excused from the jury before Justice Ryan, when the Livingstone case was on trial,

POINTED TO HIS COLLEAGUES,

who were more fortunate, and said, "There is as fine a half-dozen men as ever robbed a hen roost on a rainy night." And that is the impression that the average jury gives a man who sees them. They are a clannish set and know one another as members of the same profession. If a stranger should happen to get on the jury, he is treated with coldness and contempt. These "cast-iron" fellows know what they are going to do, but they cannot tell what the stranger may be up to. He may want to weigh the merits of the case before deciding it, and that causes delay. He might even "hang" the jury, which is a thing that professional jurymen hate as they do poison. But it is not often that this thing happens. The Constable sees to that. When he wants a jury he hastens off to the saloon, which is as indispensable an adjunct to a Justice's Court as a stage is to a theater, and there the "boys" are waiting for him. He marches them in. They take the seats which they know well from previous experience, and the case goes on. The verdict is usually against the man who has the most money, because then the jurymen are sure to get their fee. This is one of the reasons why the temples of justice are called "the poor man's court." A poor man never loses a case unless he has given security for costs, and even then the jury will usually make a sure thing of it and "nail" the man that has money. A well-known president of a well-known bank had a case before a downtown Justice of the Peace not long ago. To his surprise he won it, despite the fact that it was a jury trial. He was at a loss to know why the well-known rule had been so flagrantly violated in his case. The mystery was soon cleared up. By mail the next day he received a letter from the foreman of the intelligent jury that sat in his case, stating that he, the foreman, had had considerable trouble in swinging his companions around to the side of the bank president. He stated that they wanted to go the other way because the bank president could better afford to lose the case, but that by the liberal use of whisky and other such arguments as jurymen hearken to he had been able

and get the verdict in the shape it was. The curious epistle closed with a suggestion from the foreman that he be recompensed for the service so rendered. The bank president tore the letter up, and mercifully refrained from invoking the aid of the criminal statutes in the case. It is extremely probable that the fellow was telling a lie in his letter, and that the "sweet six" had arranged this plan for adding to their income of a dollar a day, which is about the average of a "cast-iron" juryman's salary. It is no uncommon thing for a man who has a case in these courts to be approached on the sly by one of these fellows with the statement that, if a little money is forthcoming, he will be able to use it with the jury, all of whom are friends of his. A well-known business man dropped into a Justice's court the other day, when a case in which he was interested was on trial. He was a little late, and did not get in until after the jury had been selected and the trial begun. As he cast his eye over the jury-box, he discovered a man among the intelligent half-dozen whom he had discharged a month before and kicked out of his store because he had caught him in the meanest kind of speculation. The fellow had answered that he had known Mr. ——, and had worked for him, but with no intimation of the kicking out process. And so the stories go on, and could be multiplied to dozens. The "Jedge" in many cases is an innocent victim in these matters. He is usually the slave of the Constable, who runs him as he does all other affairs in connection with the court.

The latter's political influence is a thing that the Justice fears if he has any hopes of reëlection. The principal fault to be attributed to the Justice's is their dense ignorance, not only of law, but of all other subjects, including the English language. In the list given yesterday there was certainly not more than one who has a half decent English education. In fact it is not known at this writing that any of them have, but the exception is put in to be on the side of truth. They are taken from all the lower walks of life, are men who can muster enough strength to carry the nomination in the little district conventions where Justices are made. The candidate wants the place because it pays well, because and because it gives him an official standing at meetings and other places where Justices of the Peace and that order of statesmen do congregate. He frequently is under obligations to the Constable long before he is elected. In these cases the Constable practically owns the court. He can run in whatever juries he may wish, and the Judge does not dare to protest. In many cases, however, the Justice and the Constable are in "cahoots," to use a Constable's usual expression, and then litigants stand a fine show for justice. Cases of landlord summons are the ones in which the juries revel in these courts. A tenant fails to pay rent, and his landlord brings suit in ejectment, giving him five days' notice, as required by law. A jury is called in, every last one of whom is in sympathy with the tenant, because none of them ever pay rent, or anything else if they can possibly avoid it. Then a Justice of the Peace lawyer, who is generally as great an ignoramus as a Justice of the Peace, and additionally dangerous, because he has had the experience of years in trickery, makes an appeal to the jury, who are against paying bills on general principles, in which property-owners are bitterly denounced, held up as capitalists and otherwise thoroughly execrated. In two cases out of three the jury finds for the tenant, and he retains possession of premises to which he has no earthly right. The owner must appeal the case at additional expense, while the tenant laughs at him. In the reference made above to "Justice of the Peace lawyers," there is no desire to reflect upon reputable attorneys whose business sometimes calls them into these places, "where injustice is judicially administered." The men referred to are a class who continually haunt these places, and to whom particular attention will be paid in a seperate article. It is the universal sentiment that this system should be remedied, and the Legislature should pay particular attention to it at once.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

George Wayne, while attempting to jump over a fence at the Stock Yards this morning, had his right arm dislocated at the wrist.

Bridget Clancey, the little two-year-old granddaughter of Thomas Kennedy, died last evening and will be buried in Calvary Cemetery, St. Louis, this evening.

Charles Williams charges Joseph Bird with assault with intent to kill, in 'Squire Lynn's court. The parties are colored and reside in the village of Brooklyn. Jealousy between the men over a colored damsel is the cause assigned for the trouble.

The City Council held a meeting last night and dispensed with the services of City Treasurer Dausch, appointing Thomas Fekete to the position made vacant. The discharge of Dausch was a complete surprise to that gentleman and his friends, but was decided upon by the Council a week ago, when he refused to accept city script at the bank. The position only pays $50 per month, the holder being compelled to give $100,000 security for the faithful discharge of his duties. The Council also ordered the City Clerk draw a warrant on the Treasurer for $3,000 of the school fund in his hands, but George O'Melveny, attorney for the School Board, notified the Treasurer to pay the money to no one unless the School Treasurer.

Candidates for the city offices to be filled at the approaching municipal election are becoming very numerous, at least two dozen announcing themselves since last evening. The two political factions, those in power and those desiring to be in power, have been making steady preparations for this spring's election since the last campaign. The opposition to the present city officials is very bitter, and it is very likely those whose terms now expire will be retired from politics. The terms of Mayor McLean, Councilmen Healy, Sackman, Walsh and Rafter expire the 3d of next month. The Mayor cannot be his own successor and will not be a candidate for any office this election. Councilmen Healy and Sackman will voluntarily retire from politics, but Rafter and Walsh will again strive to regain their present positions. Rafter will have a hard race to make, the desire of the Council's opponents to defeat him being stronger than against the others combined. Dr. Winton has developed unexpected strength in his race for the Mayoralty, and will, in all probability, distance all competitors. His great strength lies with the poorer classes, and is not suprising to those who are acquainted with his dealings with them for years past. Frank Healy, a very popular young grocer on Fourth street, and son of the present Councilman from the Second Ward, is a candidate for his father's position, and will be opposed in the race by Wm. Shea, superintendent of the bridge employes. The other aspirants are less known, but are above the average of candidates of other years. An effort will be made to vote about 400 imported tramps, already here for that purpose, but the scheme is not likely to succeed; at least not without serious trouble.

NORTH ST. LOUIS.

Mr. Joseph Hofner, proprietor of the Dock Street Planing Mill, left to-day for a trip to Florida.

Barney Feldmeier is mentioned as a candidate for the City Council from the Sixteenth Ward.

The Knapp, Stout & Co. Company's saw-mill at at the foot of Bremen avenue has resumed work, after being shut down a month for repairs.

Hyde Park council, No. 4, Legion of Honor, is making arrangements for the celebration of its second anniversary.

Twenty-five horses went Southwest this morning for calvalry service and they are some of the secret purchases, by United States officers from Maxwell Bros., horse and mule market.

The frame work of the Schulenburg & Boeckeler Lumber Company's new saw-mill in course of construction on the lumber landing at the foot of St. Louis avenue, caught fire from boiling tar and was in danger of being destroyed but for the work of the men about the mill, who extinguished the flames before any considerable damage was done.

The officers of Capt. McDonald's staff are making numerous arrests of teamsters with wagons not having boxes high enough to conform with the city ordinance, which says that boxes on wagons hauling dirt shall be twenty-four inches high.

Yesterday afternoon Wm. Gibson, residing at No. 3304 North Eleventh street, was struck with a gun by Jacob Ebeck and badly injured while on the lumber wharf at the foot of Destrehan street. Gibson is in bed from the effect of the blows he received. He was struck on the right shoulder, on the head and left wrist. Ebeck was arrested at midnight by Officers Henry Meyerpeter and Haley.

JOHN BARNICKLE, St. Louis, Mo., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters entirely cured my wife of dyspepsia."

BELLEVILLE.

Wolford Brect, who was caught in possession of Jas. Ogle's mare, in East Carondelet, produced affidavits which satisfied the authorities here that he had not stolen the horse. He was discharged yesterday evening.

The Western Nail Mill Association at their meeting held yesterday evening in Pittsburg, reaffirmed the present card rates and permits all the mill owners to run three weeks commencing next Monday, then to stop two weeks. Both of the nail mills here are running.

Dr. Dake's buggy was destroyed by a runaway 'bus in front of the Hinkley House. The 'bus started from the Illinois and St. Louis Railroad depot and started for stable. Fortunately no one was hurt. The driver, who is very careful, had to leave his horses to assist a lady with a trunk.

This morning the following prisoners were brought out to be arraigned and to plead to the indictments found against them: John Wonders, charged with an assault to kill Charles Hart, at East St. Louis, on the 19th of February, pleaded not guilty; Charles Florence, charged with the larceny of a gold watch and chain and $32 in money, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to eighteen months' confinement in the Penitentiary; Edward Eckel, charged with burglary and larceny of wine and money from Adolph Andel, of the National Hotel in Belleville, pleaded not guilty.

CARONDELET JOTTINGS.

Larry McDonald, who was fined $25 for disturbing the peace and skipped the town, was run in last night by the police and this morning was sent to the Work-house.

Last night the last of the thirteen skilled mechanics brought here by the Vulcan Company left for the East, their former residence. Their expenses were defrayed by former employes of the Company.

The case of Thomas Maher, charged with assaulting ex-Officer Sherman, was dismissed in the Police Court this morning, a warrant being sworn out which transfers the case to the Court of Criminal Correction. The case of Schupe, docketed for trial to-day, by agreement of counsel was disposed of in the same way. Linan, charged with the same offense, pleaded guilty, was fined $5 and costs, which he paid.

GOSSIP ON THE STREETS.

"Do you know that our travel varies during the week?" said a conductor of the Gravois street road. "The two best days in the week are Tuesday and Saturday. It is a fact that every conductor on the line will tell you too, that as many women travel on the road and go shopping on a rainy day as on a fine, bright day. The only explaination I can give is that they think they have dainty ankles and want to show them."

"I AM in favor of receiving Gen. Diaz in a way that will give him a proper idea of our energy and our industry," said Postmaster Hays. "Let us keep the frolic, I believe it is commonly called a 'drunk,' away in the background. Take him to our flour mills, our foundries, and, without any pushing of myself forward, I would like to show him the workings of the St. Louis Post-office and let him compare them with the amateur way they do things in Mexico."

"THE Mayor," said Gus Ewing, who is the brother of the city's chief executive, "is now at his farm near Vincennes, Ind., and if he is making out the appointments, as they claim, I feel assured he will select the very best men, according to his own judgment, and will appoint them without reference to their political 'infloocence,' as they say. In this as in everything else, the Mayor will try to do the right thing, and if he makes any mistakes he will have to shoulder the responsibility. He will be back the latter part of the week."

"I BELIEVE," remarked Mr. Leonard Matthews, the banker, yesterday, "that there is a good opening for a private corporation to take a contract for supplying the district west of Grand avenue with water. I think it would pay. In fact, I am of opinion that the city could profitably sell the Water-works at Bissell's Point to private parties, and that the revenue which would be derived from these parties would be greater than it is at present. But be that as it may, I am certain there is a good field for private enterprise in the district west of Grand avenue."

"I never noticed that the Merchants' Exchange had slighted Mexico," said Mr. J. F. Cahill, "until a year ago, when I took a prominent Mexican in there. He looked around and noticed immediately that the flag of his country was not among those painted on the walls, and I think Mr. Fusz's suggestion a good one, viz., that the Mexican banner should take the place of the flag of Siam, or Liberia, or some other place we know nothing about. It is the law in Mexico that, on American holidays, the American flag must be displayed in all public highways."

"THE St. Louis retail grocers are making an effort to establish a Grocer's Exchange," said Mr. John Mueller, of the Grocers Journal. "There is certainly as much need of a Grocers' Exchange, and as many advantages to be derived from it by men in this line of business, as there is for a Coal or Cotton Exchange. I believe the only opposition to the project originates with some of the wholesale dealers, and I am confident that they will withdraw their objections when they come to understand the proposed scheme. They now have a mistaken idea about the matter, and on this account have expressed themselves unfavorably."

"SPIRIT LAKE," said John A. Moak, who has just opened a splendid club house at this resort in Dickson county, Iowa, "is a great place for fishing and hunting. I've seen as many as 10,000 quails in a piece of timber there at one time and have known men to take 100 pounds of fish, every one of them a yard long, in a half day. From 600 to 800 St. Louisans go to the lake to hunt every summer, and as we've just got a new hotel, with 500 sleeping rooms, a new hall and numerous other improvements, on a large scale, it looks as if that section was about to experience a boom that would bring it to the front as a summer resort."

"THERE is John Peyton," said Mr. Thomas B. Harvey, the attorney, yesterday, as a burly negro passed and pleasantly said, "Good mo'ning, sah." "Mr. Bishop and I defended Peyton, who was charged with murder at the last term of the Criminal Court. He had pleaded guilty and gone to the Penitentiary on a 99-year sentence. We had the plea set aside, brought him back and made a motion on which we could have Peyton discharged, but he had become almost insane, and could not be induced to sign the motion, so we had to go to trial. We acquitted him and he has since recovered entirely and is now as lively a negro as you would find in a day's walk."

"PEOPLE make remarkable mistakes sometimes," observed Acting Mayor George W. Parker, to-day; "for instance, my name is the same as that of the general manager of the Cairo Short Line, and we are very frequently confounded with each other. My namesake is, I believe, what is called a Sabbatarian, whereas I am not even a member of the church, and yet I am frequently referred to as the rigidest kind of a Sunday law advocate. I am also said to be a strong professor of total abstinence. This is also untrue. I believe in temperance, of course, but, so far from being a friend of total abstinence, I have wine in my house all the time for family use, and I believe it to be an excellent thing for the promotion of good health."

"I'VE just come from Denver, Leadville and that country," said George Knight, the German comedian, "and am perfectly delighted with my trip and astonished at the wonders and riches of the region. It is a magnificent country and the people seem as open-hearted and generous as the day is long. Everybody appears to understand and appreciate the fact that there is room enough out there for all who come along, and not only do they extend you a hearty welcome, but their invitation is of the bona fide kind that tells you to bring your trunk along and stay for a good long while. I think when I get through acting I'll make me a little Rip Van Winkle home out there in the mountains and play at digging a mine or running a quartz mill for a couple of years or three."

"YES, I think it will." This from Mr. Stickney, of Stickney & Ellis, in answer to a question as to whether the reduction of the tax would cheapen tobacco. "You see, heretofore we jobbers haven't felt the reduction because it has generally gone to the pockets of the manufacturers. When the tax was reduced from twenty-four to sixteen cents the manufacturers would not reduce the cost of tobacco, but begged off on the plea that they would improve the quality of the goods and would give the difference to their employes, and the dealers did not insist, but I think the manufacturers will have to notice this reduction. The manufacture of tobacco is confined now mostly to large establishments, and competition is very strong, so if one of them reduces the price the others must come down to it. As to cigars I scarcely think that the prices will be much reduced, but the quality will be improved by the amount of reduction. Our dealers here pay from $30 to $35 a thousand for five-cent cigars and I do not think they will pay less, but they will demand that the $3 reduction be put in the quality of the filling. Of course the public won't feel these advantages at once, but they will come in time."

Running Again.

Trains via the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway between St. Louis and Columbus, Ky., will commence running this Thursday evening at 8:30 p. m., and run regularly hereafter. Passengers for Mobile, New Orleans, Nashville, Chattanooga and points in the Southeast can now go through via this route without delay. Trains leave at 7:50 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. Pullman Sleepers, St. Louis to New Orleans, without change.

THE WINDSOR CASE.

Judge Laughlin Occupied with the Trial of the Conspiracy Case.

In the Court of Criminal Correction Judge Laughlin was occupied to-day with the trial of Messrs. Engelke, Peck and Barrett for conspiracy in disposing of the Windsor Hotel property on Washington avenue and Fourteenth street. Court opened at 10 o'clock, and shortly after it was discovered that the deed on which the prosecution is based was not in court. It was in the possession of Judge Wm. C. Jones, who, previous to his appointment to the office of Circuit Attorney, was of counsel for the defense. Mr. Glover proposed to issue process to secure the paper. The defense stated their readiness to obtain the paper, which, after a long delay, was produced. It was then discovered that the deed was without a seal, and the defense consequently argued that no property was transferred, as claimed in the information. Judge Laughlin hinted that this was the question in the case, and the drove of attorneys, prosecutor and defendants moved on the clerk's desk. The court then stated that the proper time to argue the point based on the weight and nature of thif instrument would be at the close of the State's case. In accordanee with this arrangement Mr. Glover read the purported deed to the jury. After a recess the case was again resumed at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The special jury will be kept together until the case is disposed of finally in this court. Last night they were lodged at the Laclede hotel.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROXY.

Hon. John W. Foster Discourses of Gen. Porfirio Diaz.

Hon. John W. Foster, former Minister to Mexico, and now representing the United States at Madrid, accompanied by his wife, arrived at the Southern this morning. It is generally known that Mr. Foster's mission to this city is for the purpose of extending the courtesies of the Government to our expected distinguished guests Gen. Porfirio Diaz and party. Mr. Foster was chosen for this mission because part of his term as Minister to Mexico was served in the presidency of Gen. Diaz, with whom he sustains a cordial personal friendship, and Mrs. Foster accompanies him to meet her friend, Mrs. Diaz. In conversation with a POST-DISPATCH reporter this morning Mr. Foster gave an interesting history of Gen. Diaz' life and services to Mexico. Gen. Diaz was born in Mexico September 15, 1830, and hence is now in his fifty-second year. He was first educated for the law, but when he reached young manhood, in 1854, the reform movement was inaugurated, which resulted in the founding of a liberal party, opposed to the old regime in which the church was dominant in the State. General Diaz turned aside from his pursuit of the law and threw himself heart and soul in this liberal movement and labored earnestly for its success until its triumph was signalized by the adoption of the Liberal Constitution of 1857. The adoption of this constitution brought about the intervention of the French and the attempt to seat Maximilian on the throne of a Mexican monarchy. In the constant inter-mixture of politics and war General Diaz was compelled to take a large part in military affairs, and in the contest with France he was given a command of an army division. In the conduct of the war Diaz played a most conspicuous and gallant part, his daring raids and wonderful escapes from capture in French prisons surrounding his war history with the atmosphere of a romance and giving him

GREAT PRESTIGE AMONG THE MEXICAN PEOPLE.

When Maximilian was executed in June, 1867, Gen. Diaz was engaged in the siege of Mexico, which he succeeded in recapturing the city from the French, thus accomplishing the chief event of the war, and placing himself at the head of Mexican military leaders. After the settlement of the French contest, Gen. Diaz was twice a candidate for the presidency against Juarez, and, after two defeats, in spite of the popular voice in his favor, announced the doctrine that there could be no fair election by the people as long as the President could be his own successor, and on this principal headed a revolution against the successful candidate Laredo in 1876, which placed him in the office of President. Although Gen. Diaz became President through revolution, he remained firm to his convictions and had the constitution amended so that no President could be re-elected to succeed himself, and at the close of his term obeyed the law and handed over the Government to his successor, President Gonzales, peacefully, the first time such an event had ever occurred in the history of Mexico.

Gen. Diaz is identified with the great change in the direction of progress in Mexican affairs of late years, as during his administration he has succeeded in accomplishing three important results, viz.: stability of government, security to life and property, without which there can be no commercial prosperity, and, lastly, the opening up of the vast resources of the country to American enterprise and capital, as it was in President Diaz' administration that the first grants were given to American railway projects. He has always favored liberal concessions to such enterprises, and has made the carrying out of them possible by his firm government.

Mr. Foster says that Gen. Diaz is of medium height, of soldierly bearing and is extremely frank and courteous in manner, in fact that his popularity with the people is largely due to his manner. The General does not speak English, but can understand a little of it. Senator Immanuel Romero-Rubio and wife, who accompany the party, are the parents of Mrs. Diaz, whom Mrs. Foster describes as very young, accomplished and charming. She says that during their stay in Mexico Mrs. Diaz who was then a young girl was one of the most intimate friends of his daughter. Mrs. Diaz speaks English fluently.

The committee from the Merchants' Exchange, composed of ex-Gov. E. O. Stanard, Com. L. A. Smith, Gen. Greer and Chas. W. Filley, received Hon. and Mrs. Foster this morning in the parlors of the Southern and spent a pleasant hour chatting with the distinguished guests.

Gen. Diaz and Party.

It is now announced that Gen. Porfirio Diaz and party will arrive at the Union Depot at 6:45 a. m. to-morrow, on a special train, over the Missouri Pacific. The train will be switched on a side-track, and the guests will not be disturbed until a later hour, when the reception committee will arrive. The Arsenal Band and several companies of military will escort the party to the Southern Hotel. The Tredway rifles, Company D, Third Regiment, Capt. Walbridge, commanding, have volunteered for the occasion, and are called to assemble at the Armory at 6 a. m. to-morrow. To-morrow afternoon carriages will be provided and Gen. Diaz will be shown around the mills, factories and public establishments. In the evening a reception will be held at the Southern Hotel. The invitations are limited to 1,000 persons. The committees met at 3 p. m. to-day and perfected all arrangements.

The State Rests.

Kate Nutley was called for the State in the Rickert murder case to-day, and swore that she heard Rickert and Mrs. Wilson quarrelling in the kitchen' Rickert accused Mrs. Wilson of going with other men. Sergeant Hall, the last witness for the State testified that he went to the house when Rickert was arrested and heard Mrs. Wilson say that Rickert shot her. Rickert asked the woman twice if she said he shot her, but witness heard no reply. The State rested its case here.

La Grand Duchesse's Divorce.

From the Paris Cor. Cincinatti Enquirer.

You remember the marriage—about two years back—of Mlle Hortense Schneider (La Grand Duchesse) to an Italian nobleman, don't you? well, they are going to be divorced. When Hortense Schneider married she had grown tired of Parisian life, and sighed to taste the calm joys of domestic bliss. The husband she selected owned a little estate in the neighborhood of Florence, and there Hortense was delighted with her new existence. She devoted herself to herself to domestic cares and to being the Lady Bountiful of parish, and she went to bed at 9 o'clock. After a few months this life began to be monotonous, and she sighed for Paris—for its theatres and the Bois. Her husband, who had no desire to return to Paris, made her the following proposition: We will go to Paris for three months in the year. You shall do just as you please. I will go everywhere with you, and you shall never hear any complaints from me. At the end of the three months we will return to our little estate, and spend here the rest of the year. That is all that our fortune will allow us to do." To this proposal Hortense agreed, and they came to Paris. At the end of the three months she grumbled, but nevertheless returned to Italy. Soon the monotony of her life became more than the ex-queen of the opera bouffe could stand, and constant and bitter quarrels followed with her husband, who insisted upon the letter of his bond and soon the courts are to be asked to seperate them for "incompatibility of temper." Hortense will soon once more be at liberty to return to her beloved Paris, and, it goes without saying to her innumerable lovers.

How is This for High?

A Raleigh, N. C., youth of eighteen years is six feet eight inches in height.

London has a new tenement house that is fourteen stories, or 130 feet high.

A sixteen-year-old lad of Moore county, N. C., is six feet four inches from heel to crown.

R. Z. Fenn, of Southbury, Conn., at the age of fifteen, is six feet two inches in his stockings.

A colored lad at Sharpsburg, Nash county, N. C., can see over any seven-foot bean-pole in the neighborhood.

A pine tree, recently felled at Topsham, Me., carried its crest 183 feet above the ground. From it 4,460 feet of lumber were obtained. It was cut up into matches.

Hamilton, Ont., has several citizens who could serve in emergencies as fire escapes. Here are samples: Emanuel Morton, 7 feet; William McCartney, 6 feet 7 inches; Police Constable Donald Smith, 6 feet 5½ inches; Chief of Police Stewart, 6 feet 4½ inches; George Sayers, 6 feet 4 inches; Alexander Harvey, Sr., 6 feet 4 inches; James Harvey, 6 feet 4 inches.

A Kentucky Corpse Sits Up and Talks

From the Owingsville Outlook

Wash Thompson, the mail carrier, rode into Olympia Tuesday morning and created a profound sensation by reporting that there was a dead man on the road a short distance away. Esquire James K. Jackson and about thirty others repaired to the spot, and there, sure enough, was the man, apparently lifeless, on the ground. The 'Squire quickly, as in duty bound, impaneled a jury and proceeded to hold an inquest. Imagine the consternation of that crowd when the supposed corpse sat bolt upright and addressed the court as follows: "May it please your honor, I feel that I have a right to a voice in these proceedings." Then, looking solemnly around: "I object to half of this jury." That jury adjourned sine die, and the boys now have the laugh on them and the 'Squire. The man was merely drunk, a very unusual sight to see in that moral section of the country.

How She Lost Him.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

There were tears in the soft blue eyes as she raised her head from his shoulder, and in response to his urgent request to know what was the matter sobbingly she said:

"Papa failed to-day; lost every cent he had in the world. But that won't make any difference in your feelings for me, George, will it?" And she threw a look of entreaty at him that might have melted a cast-iron elevated railway director.

"No," returned the implacable youth calmly, "my feelings for you changed some time ago."

Then he slid out of her arms as if he had been greased, and was gone forever.

The Church as an Umbrella.

From Texas Siftings.

During divine services in the Austin Blue Light Tabernacle several colored gentlemen seeking refuge from the rain, entered the sacred edifice, intending to remain there until the rain had subsided, but Parson Whanfidoodle Baxter raised such a storm that they were glad to get back into the rain again. "We reads," said the good man, pounding on the pulpit with his fist, "we reads in de Good Book ob wicked men makin' de church a cloak to cover up their sins, but you sinners are a heap wusser. You ain't satisfied wid using de church as a cloak. You use de church as an umbrella."

An Unknown Speaker.

From the Washington Sunday Herald.

In the House lobby, back of the Speaker's desk, is an incomplete collection of portraits of Speakers of the past. All are labeled with the correct names except one. This is the second picture on the right hand side of the lobby, as you go in from the west. No one apparently knows who in this represents beyond the fact that he was once Speaker. The oldest citizen has vainly struggled to identify him. Unknown, the face of the man who once held the third office in the United States gazes calmly down upon the procession passing him in a maddening rush for political fame.

Odd Poesy.

2 lovers sat beneath the shade,
And 1 un2 the other sayed:
"How 14-8 that you be9
Have smiled upon this suit of mine;
If 5 a heart, it palps 4 you—
Thy voice is mu6 melody—
'Tis 7 to be thy loved 1, 2—
Say, 0y nymph, wilt marry me?"
Then lisped she soft, "Why, 13ly."

A yew that is over 800 years old still stands in the garden of the Herrenhaus, Berlin. It is of the speeies Texus baccata, is 38 feet high, and its circumference is 5 feet. Its species is wholly extinct in the forest. The premises on which it stands were once owned by the father of Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy, and the first execution of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," took place in this very garden. At the time the Upper Chamber Hall was erected, it was King Frederick William IV who saved the venerable tree from destuction.

March On, March On to Victory.

Under date of November 21, 1882, Mr. Albert Handy, of Pratt & Whitney Company, Hartford, Connecticut, writes:

"Having been a great sufferer from a severe attack of Kidney disease, and endured for a long time the intense pain, many aches and extreme weakness that always attend this dread disease, including the terrible backache, after trying doctors' prescriptions and many other so-called cures, without gaining any benefit, I was finally persuaded to take Hunt's Remedy; and, after using it a very short time, I find myself entirely relieved from the backache and other pains; and, better than all the other improvements in my general health, my Kidney disease is cured. It affords me great pleasure to recommend Hunt's Remedy to all who may be suffering as I have been, as it is a safe and reliable medicine for Kidney disease."

Honest Indorsement.

Mr. C. T. Melvin, of Providence, R. I., says:

"Believing, as I do, that an honest indorsement of all you claim for the virtues of Hunt's Remedy, I with pleasure attest to the fact that its action in restoring a healthy condition to diseased Kidneys and Liver is, in my case, little less than miraculous."

"So say we all of us,
One, two, three, four of us,"— and so on up to thousands, that Hunt's Remedy is incomparably the best Kidney and Liver medicine known.

DOCTOR WHITTIER

617 St. Charles Street, St. Louis, Mo.,

A regular graduate of two medical colleges, has been longer engaged in the treatment of Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood Diseases than any other physician in St. Louis, as city papers show and all old residents know. Consultation at office or by mail, free and invited. A friendly talk or opinion costs nothing. When it is inconvenient to visit the city for treatment, medicine can be sent by mail or express everywhere. Curable cases guaranteed; where doubt exists it is frankly stated.

Nervous Prostration, Debility, Mental and Physical Weakness, Mercurial and other affections of Throat, Skin and Bones, Blood Impurities and Blood Poisoning, Skin Affections, Old Sores and Ulcers, Impediments to Marriage, Rheumatism, Piles. Especial attention to cases from over-worked brain. SURGICAL Cases receive Special Attention.

Diseases arising from Indiscretion, Excess Exposure or Indulgence, producing some of the following effects: Nervousness, Debility, Dimness of Sight or Perverted Vision, Defective Memory, Pimples on the Face, Aversion to Society of Females, Want of Pleasure in Life, Want of Ambition, Unfitness to Marry, Melancholy, Dyspepsia, Headache, Restlessness, Loss of Spirits, Pains in the Back, etc., are treated with unparalleled success. Treatment, without hindrance to business, safe, sure and permanent. Sent everywhere by mail or express.

Catarrh, Throat, Nose and Lung Disease. Liver Complaints.

It is self-evident that a physician paying particular attention to a class of cases attains great skill, and physicians in regular practice all over the country, knowing this, frequently recommend cases to this oldest office in America, where every known appliance is resorted to, and the proved good remedies of all ages and countries are used. A whole house is used for office purposes, and all are treated with skill in a respectful manner; and knowing what to do, no experiments are made. On account of the great number of cases applying, the charges are kept low, often lower than is demanded by others. If you secure the skill and get a speedy and perfect cure, that is the important matter.

Manhood Restored.

A victim of early imprudence, causing Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has discovered a simple means of self-cure, which he will send free to his fellow-sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, 43 Chatham st., N. Y.

CURE YOURSELF.

Bohannan's "Vegetable Curative" cures all Nervous Diseases, Mental and Physical Weakness, General Debility, Kidney Complaints, Organic Weakness, or any of the train of evils arising from Indiscretions, Over Brain Work, OR ANY OTHER CAUSE, which often terminate in Consumption or Insanity. Many men, from the effects of Youthful Imprudence, have brought about a state of weakness that has reduced the general system so much as to induce symptoms of nearly every other disease, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever being suspected they are doctored for everything but the right one. Notwithstanding the many valuable remedies that medical science has produced for the relief of this class of patients, none of the ordinary modes of treatment effect a cure as promptly as BOHANNAN'S VEGETABLE CURATIVE.

It has been used by old Dr. Bohannan in his private practice for over thirty years, has never failed in curing even the Worst Cases. The patient gains strength and elasticity of spirits at once, as it acts directly on the parts affected as a soothing and healing tonic and anodyne, imparting power and tone and restoring them to their natural state, the same as if never affected. The ingredients are simple productions of nature—barks, roots, herbs, etc., and are a specific for the above diseases. Permanently curing most cases in from two to seven weeks time.

Price Five Dollars sent to any address. For sale only at Bohannan's Drug Store, No. 621 North Fifth Street, corner of Christy avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

A Treatise fully describing the above sent FREE.

PILES CURED. "Bohannan's Pile Ointment," cures the worst cases of Piles, no matter what form or how long standing, in from 2 to 5 days. Price, One Dollar per box. Prepared by BOHANNAN & CO., Druggists, s. w. Cor. Fifth and Christy ave.

DR. WOOD—Thirty years' practical experience—cures all CHRONIC DISEASES of male or female, no matter how SERIOUS or long standing, in less time and for LESS MONEY than any other physician. Every case guaranteed; business confidential. Office private. No. 619 Locust street. Call or write. Hours 8 to 8 daily.

Bursting Bogs.

From the London Standard.

The long deluge of rain to which so many districts have been subjected has resulted in misfortunes curiously characteristic of the regions in which they occur. Switzerland, for example, has been harassed by landslips, Germany and Hungary have been desolated by floods, and now it is the turn of Ireland to add to her other unhappiness the peculiar calamity of bursting bogs. Already we are told that several thousand acres in the vicinity of Castlerea are submerged, mills are stopped, bridges are choked, fields are covered to the depth of twenty-six feet, and traffic on the road between Bellingare and Castlerea has been suspended by the overflow of a "moss," flooded by the rain until it has broken its bounds, and is now advancing rapidly towards the town. The bog at Baslik, which "moved some time ago, is also breaking up in several places, and threatens before long to begin its march on the arable country in the neighboring lowlands. Such mishaps are, unfortunately, too common in Ireland. Last June a large bog on the Wistropp estate, in East Clare, began to crawl to the southward, carrying before it several patches of reclaimed land, planted with potatoes, and destroying a portion of the main road to Limerick. A few years ago some laborers working in a field in Galway heard "a noise like thunder," followed almost immediately, to use their phrase, of the black ooze of a "moving bog." By and by, the witnesses of this strange sight were driven from the field which they were cultivating; and before the lava-like stream ceased its progress, two corn-fields, a potato-patch, and a considerable tract of pasture-land were indunated. The bursting of the Solway morass, more than a century ago, is a case even more familiar for this vast morass, saturated by unprecedentedly heavy rains, left its bed and covered four hundred acres of farms to such a depth that several cottages were buried, and a further number so far entombed that the roofs alone appeared above the dreary expanse of liquid peat. When the inundation ceased it was found that the original level of the bog in its own area had sunk twenty-five feet, and that in the lowest ground which it had invaded as much as fifteen feet of turfy substance had been deposited. Again, in 1831, a bog of one hundred acres, between Bloomsfield and Greevah, in Sligo, burst, and, in addition to covering a large extent of arable land, cut up the ground into deep ravines and carried away the road from Bloomfield to St. James' Well far a distance 9,200 yards. These instances could be multiplied almost indefinitly. But they have all one feature in common—they are invariably caused simply by the vast turf deposits receiving more water than they can hold, and consequently breaking their banks and moving down to the lower levels.

An Alabama Preacher.

From the Selma Times.

Rev. P. S. Pevy, a Methodist divine in charge of the Brown Station circuit, was to have filled his regular appointment at the above named place on last Sabbath. At the usual hour he entered the pulpit, kneeling, as is customary with ministers, to offer a short prayer, but remained in that position fully fifteen minutes, when he arose and opened the service by reading a hymn, which was sung by the congregation. He then offered a short prayer and immediately read the second hymn, when he closed his hymn book, opened the Bible and, placing both hands on the same as if resting, remained in that position fully half an hour, during which time the congregation sang three more hymns. He was then asked by a member to close the services, to whom he paid no attention, but remained motionless and speechless. The congregation in the meantime dissmissed itself, a few gentlemen remaining to better acquaint themselves with the strange actions of the pastor. Not replying to any interrogatories he was was finally taken hold of to be seated. when he rather abruptly pulled away and seated himself.

H was finally induced to accompany them to the residence of Dr. J. C. Groves. He spoke not a word to any one until the next morning, when he appeared and asked for a pen and ink, as he wished to attend to a little business, and from that time on he seemed to have returned to his semi-unconscious state. At one time during the day he entered the room of Mrs. Groves and stood before the fire three hours without uttering so much as a syllable, when he left, only to roam in and about the yard as might a somnambulist. He was accompanied to the city yesterday by Dr. Groves, and in charge of Rev. Mr. Boland, presiding elder of this district, left on the Lucy Gastrell for the home of his mother, some miles below Camden.

Beaconsfield's Religious Faith.

From the London Times.

The statement having recently been revived that shortly before the death of Lord Beaconsfield he was visited by the Rev. Father Clare, who formally received the noble Lord into the Roman Catholic Church, Lord Claud J. Hamilton, M. P., wrote to Lord Rowton to inquire whether there was any foundation for the statement. In reply Lord Rowton wrote; "I am able to give a very short reply to your inquiry. The whole statement to which you call my attention is absolutely devoid of any foundation whatever."

A Remarkable Yarn About Arthur.

Washington Letter in the New York World.

"They say" that the President's idiosyncracy is the cut of his trousers—that he had a tailor on from New York to cut him a pair, and was so pleased with the immaculate fit of them that he made the man cut eight pairs before he left; also, that the material was first laid down on the floor and then the President was laid down on it, and when one side was cut the tailor deftly flopped him over as if he had been a griddle-cake and cut the other side.

RIDING AN AVALANCHE.

How Uncle Alex Made a Winter Trip from Elk Creek to Deer Lodge.

From the Montana New Northwest.

Everybody knows, or is the worse off for not knowing, Uncle Alex Hiland. He came over here from Boise in '66 and got a good claim on Elk Creek, where he has lived since, save when he comes up to Deer Lodge occasionally to spend a week or two with his friends. A few days ago John Gerber wrote to him of his intended departure for California about this time, and in the due course of uncertain mails the letter was placed in Uncle Alex's hands. It had been raining two days on Elk; the four or five feet of snow that covers the mountains and gulches in the vicinity was soft and honeycombed and the streams were running a freshet. But Uncle Alex concluded to come to Deer Lodge to see Gerber. The first eight miles to Bear, crossing the heavy range, had to be made on snow-shoes and the next nine to the stage station on foot; but Wednesday morning of last week he strapped on his eleven-feet Norwegian snow shoes and started over, by way of Deep Gulch. The ascent from Elk was tedious and laborious. It is a long trudge up the mountain to the top of the ridge, a thousand feet above Beartown and six thousand above the sea—especially to a man seventy-six years old. The summit was reached at last and he was congratulating himself on an easy run down to Beartown when the snow sunk in the trail and down he went. Another trial and the same result. The rains had honey combed and undermined the snow. A little distance on the whole body of snow had slid away and plunged down the precipitous canyon side into the bed of Deep Gulch. This would never do for snow-shoeing. The only recourse was to ascend the canyon side to the dividing ridge between Elk and Deep and follow along on the edge of the summit. He muffled his shoes with rope brought for the purpose and the climb was made, good footing secured, and all looked clear ahead.

Uncle Alex then thought it was about time for a smoke. He halted, filled his pipe, lit it, took a North American whiff or two and was just striking out when—wh-e-w-w-zip away went the entire body of snow with a wild whirl and in a moment he was riding an avalanche two hundred feet wide with lightning speed, headlong down the precipice toward the waters of the creek, nearly 400 feet below. Fortunately, he was whirled "head on" and was within a few feet of the top of the slide when it started. He struck with his alpenstock, braced himself in the shoes he could not disengage from his feet and flew through space with the accelleration of speed produced by both the declivity and the snow-slide. Before he could say "Erin go Bragh" the slide had carried him into and across the gulch, crushed the snow-shoes and swamped the snow up around him until only enough of him was left free and unfettered to have whipped Gerber had he beon in sight. But he wasn't—nor any other living thing—and the wind singing a plaintive monody in neighboring pines alone broke the stillness that succeeded the roar of the avalanche. He looked back to see if any more snow was coming. The canyon side lay bare and scarred to the summit, with the boulders and stumps holding white fragments of their recent shroud. He had ridden the crest of the slide and was safe.

He was about to rest a spell before extricating himself, when suddenly his feet grew cold. The chill crept up his ankles and was feeling for his knees before he realized the situation. The snow slide had dammed the waters of Deep Gulch. They were coming up after him. Something was necessary to be done without unnecesary delay. Some willows and brush projected near. He reached over and caught them and was speedily free. He concluded to leave the vicinity forthwith, and was soon after picking his way down the gulch, arriving at Beartown at 5 p. m. without a bruise or a broken bone. And that's the way Uncle Alex came up from Elk Creek.

Lundborg's Perfume.

EDENIA AND MARECHAL NIEL ROSE.

Science Cleverly Applied.

From the New Haven Register.

For some time the reckless use of firearms on and about the Yale campus has caused considerable comment. Not long ago a bullet entered the study of Dr. Barbour, the college professor, striking the ceiling above his head and falling upon the paper on which he was writing. It was not learned who fired the shot. About a week ago a shot entered the dining-room of a professor while he and his family were at tea. This gentleman is a professor, of mathematics and has made the study of curves a specialty. From the direction of the shot he knew it came from West Divinity building, but on account of the darkness he could not see the place of firing. To most persons this clue would not have amounted to much, but the professor knew what to do. He was determined to find out the reckless student, and he brought his mathematical knowledge into play. Knowing the breadth of the room, he measured the fall of the ball in crossing it. Then he measured the distance from his house to the West Divinity building. With these data, and knowing the curve which a bullet takes, he computed the height from which the bullet was fired and fixed upon the very window from which the bullet must have come.

The next day two students were greatly surprised by a call from the professor, who accused them of firing the shot. They denied it, and the professor gave his proof. The proof was so strong that they finally admitted their guilt. Yesterday they were told to vacate their rooms. They will receive no other punishment.

"Call the Next Case Sir."

From the Eatonton (Ga, Messenger.

Forty years ago Eatonton was a fast town. Gambling of all kinds, cock-fighting and horse-racing was the rule, as it is the exception now. Why, sir, at one term of the court—1845 or 1846—the grand-jury—returned one true bill against forty persons—John W. Ashurst, Solictor-General, and a number of prominent lawyers included—in one batch for gambling. It was in this case that it is said Judge Cone made himself famous. When the case was reached all of the defendants arose and pleaded guilty. Judge Cone fined each of them $10 and costs, and lectured them severely upon the uselessness and immorality of such habits, and the viciousness of the example which they were setting for the youth of the country; then, commanding the defendants to take their seats, with a solmn face but a merry twinkle in his eye, he turned to the Clerk and said: Now Mr. Clerk, enter after these cases, "State of Georgia vs. Judge Cone; gaming—special information by his Honor; plea of guilty, and fine him $100 and costs. Call the next case sir."

WM. A. GAULDEN, St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have been greatly benefited in vertigo and pain in my head by Brown's Iron Bitters."

The Glossograph.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Gentilli's glossograph is the latest invention for the reproduction of spoken words, and unlike the phonograph, it promises to become practically useful. It is designed to supersede stenographic writing by having an instrument do the writing automatically, registering the sounds on a paper ribbon from which they can be read and copied at leisure. The machine consists of a small apparatus to be placed in the mouth, connected by a wire with a battery in the registering machine, which can be close at hand or at any reasonable distance. If a speech is to be reported the reporter places the little apparatus in his mouth and repeats noiselessly to himself the words spoken by the orator. No sound is necessary, as it is the movement of the tongue and lips which produce the action, and the spoken words are instantaneously registered on the paper, which may be in a neighboring printing office, in a series of lines with drawn curves and angles for the different sounds. The labor is nothing compared to to stenography, and much greater speed and accuracy are insured than is possible with it.

Ladies of the Bed-Chamber.

From the London Letter.

The preëminent distinction of extra Bed-Chamber Lady to the Queen has just been conferred on the Duchess of Bedford. It can be held only by a peeress, and the Duchess has for her colleagues the Countesses of Mount Edgecombe, Mayo, Gainsbro', and two others. These are all "extras," and are aided by eight ordinary ladies of the bed-chamber. But let no republican reader, whether in France, Switzerland, or America, fancy that these extra and ordinary ladies can singly or collectively fulfill the arduous duties in connection with the royal sleeping apartment. They are assisted by twelve "bed-chamber women"—note the gradation in title—who have some claim on Her Majesty, either by reason of their own or by their husband's services. A small salary is attached to each office, which, however, is esteemed not so much for its money value as because it brings the bearer within the charmed circle of court life. The real work of attending to the Queen's bed-room is performed by a couple of very ordinary housemaids, of German extraction, whose names are "never told," and whose wages are such as few serving women in the States would care to accept.

Dissolution of Pettes & Leathe.

Mr. A. R. Francke, for seventeen years with the late firm of Pettes & Leathe, can now be found at the Art Galleries of Redheffer & Koch, southwest corner of Tenth and Olive, where he will be pleased to welcome his friends and the many patrons of the late firm.

American Labor.

From the Chicago Tribune.

From the compendium of the census of 1880 we learn that the total number of people pursuing gainful occupations was 17,392,099, being 34.68 per cent of the entire population, and 41.31 per cent of the population of ten years and upward. Of these 14,744,911 were males and 2,647,157 were females, engaged, according to general classification, thus:

	Total.	Male.	Female.
Agriculture	7,670,493	7,075,983	594,510
Professional and personal services	4,074,038	1,712,943	1,361,595
Trade and transportation	1,810,256	3,750,892	59,364
Manufacturing, mechanical and mining	3,837,112	4,205,124	631,988

Of those engaged in the last classification, about 1,000,000 worked in "protected" mills and factories, at a general average wage of $300 a year, as the census reports show. The other 2,837,000 artisans were employed in non-protected lines of manufacture, which the high protective tariff hinders and hurts, as well as it harms the farmers.

Singular Coincidence.

From the Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer, March 7.

Sunday night Mr. Jesse A. Beard, of this city, dreamed that his brother, Mr. T. J. Beard, of Chambers county, Ala., visited him, and upon being asked how things were at home told him that the family were all well, but that some thief had set fire to his out-houses, and everything on his premises were destroyed except the residence. Monday morning he received a letter from his brother which contained the exact information which he had dreamed that his brother had told him in person. The smoke-house, stable, and barn had all been destroyed, together with considerable grain and provisions, and it was with difficulty that the residence was saved. The exact amount of the loss is not known, but Mr. Beard informs us that there was no insurance.

An American's Deer Stalking.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

There has been for several years the greatest dismay among the lessees of the deer forests in Invernesshire at the prospect of the whole country coming finally into the possession of an Anglo-American millionare. The gentleman had added forest to forest, outbidding all the old sportsmen, and, if deer stalking as generally practiced can be fairly described as depopulating the hills and valleys, the deer stalking of Mr. Winans drives away not only the shepherds and the crofters, but the deer stalkers themselves. It is believed that this gentleman's ideal of sport is to leave the vast tract which he now controls for several years unvisited, until it becomes a sanctuary for all the deer of the neighboring proprietors, when he will solace himself with one gigiantic "drive."

A Hottentot Peeress.

From the London Truth.

The successor to the title of the late Earl of Stamford lived long at a place about ten miles from Cape Town, but for some time past he has resided at Wynberg, on the sandy flats, in an iron house of two rooms. By his first wife he had no issue. By his second wife he had issue, a daughter. On this wife's death he married a Hottentot, by whom he has had three children. He insists upon being called "my lord," but passes his time picking up fir cones and bits of stick in the woods to keep the domestic fire burning, while his children ran about the flats barefooted and only partially clad.

A Creditor's Last Tribute.

From a French Paper.

They were taking to his last long home a well-known personage who, through a series of "successful" failures, managed to bequeath 2,000,000 francs to his distressed widow. Speeches were made at the grave-side. One of the accomplices of the deceased spoke as follows, in a voice trembling with emotion. "Farewell, farewell, my best friend! You carry with you into the grave the regrets of all who had the privilege of knowing you; you carry with you ——" "Stay!" here broke in one of the bystanders, "please add that he carries with him 50,000 francs of mine."

A Bold Bear.

From the Poplar Bluffs, (Mo). Citizen.

Last Sunday night a week ago, during the high water, a bear was discovered on a little island near Massy's switch, five miles below town. All the guns in the little place, none containing heavier charges than squirrel shot, were immediately brought into requisition, but Mr. Bruin anticipated their proceedings and moved back further in the woods. Late in the night something was heard eating the bones and rubbish behind one of the boarding-houses, and upon opening the door what should meet their gaze but the bear, which hunger had driven to their very door. It received the contents of a shot-gun loaded with squirrel shot, as a parting salute, and made good its escape.

LIGHTS OF THE HAREM.

Relations of the Chief Eunuch and His Charges in the Palace.

Constantinople Cor. of the N. Y. Herald.

It must not be supposed that eunuchs are a particularly Turkish or Mohammedan institution. They were known in the East and formed a portion of the household of Oriental monarchs long before the Arabian prophesies of the Turks were ever heard of. Such guardians were to be found even at the Court of the Byzantine Emperors and the founders of the Ottoman Empire adopted them with other attributes of sovereign State in throwing off all semblance of subjection to the Seljuckian Sultans. Aping the example of their sovereigns, the great Pachas went in for the same custom, placing the care of their females under one or more such qualified guardians. Of late years the employment of eunuchs has gone greatly out of fashion, ordinary male attendants being sent in charge of the ladies when taking their walks abroad. This is due in a measure, I fancy, to the more humane and enlightened ideas with regard to their family life that set in with the advent to the throne of Abdul Aziz. He abrogated the cruel law by which none of the male children born of Sultans were allowed to survive their birth, and no princess to have sons that might become possible pretenders to the throne. The birth of his own son, Yusuf Izzedin, was kept carefully concealed, and when this became no longer necessary he rejoiced the hearts of his sisters by allowing them the same privileges as all Moslem women, whose greatest desire is to become the mother of a male child.

The time, however, is within the recollection of many persons at Constantinople when no carriage with Turkish ladies was to be seen unaccompanied by mounted eunuchs, armed with keen cutting scimitars, which they were apt to use on the slightest provocation. There is a gentleman still to be met with out here who obtained a handsome indemnity from the Porte for the severe punishment he received at the hands of a eunuch for what the latter considered impertinent glances thrown by a "Ghiaour" in the direction of the fair "True Believers" promenading the sweet waters under his care. To return, however, to the subject of the "Darusseadet-Oghasse." This high office was only instituted in the reign of Sultan Murad III., and the first person appointed was a negro called Mehmet Agha. His successor was a white eunuch, for it was the fashion to have them guardians of both colors.

Several of the keepers of the "Gate of Felicity" have been men of marked ability, and some of them of considerable attainments, so that it is not surprising to find they should occasionally have been transferred from the domestic to the public service. Such advancement, however, has never fallen to the lot of other than white eunuchs. Two of these latter even became grand viziers—the one a certain Khadum Messih Pacha in the reign of Selim I, and the other Kurdjis Mehemet Pacha in that of the first Sultan Achmet. Others again, have had the title of Sadr-Azane (Grand Vizier) bestowed upon them without the office, and were styled highness, just as Beiram Agha is in the present day. While the "Gate of Felicity" has thus led to great honors in the past to some of its guardians it has, in the case of others, but proved the portal of death by the bowstring and yataghan, for Ottoman monarchs were mighty jealous of their honor, and the slightest suspicion of anything being wrong in the harem was wont to send many an inmate to the bottom of the Bosphorus, together with those who were supposed to have shown a lack of vigilance. The chief eunuch enjoys great power in the harem, and although the days of the "sack" and "bowstring" are past it is decidedly bad for the lady who falls out with the guardian of the gate, for he can make her a close prisoner and deprive her of all comfort.

A Panther Hunt in Florida.

From the Palatka Herald.

On Sunday last while three colored men were out hunting near White's log camp, back of Rollstown, one of them met with an exciting adventure. He was at his stand and the dogs were heard coming in that direction. Soon there was a terrible commotion in the bushes coming toward him. The darkey, thinking it was a deer, stooped so as to get a fair shot, when suddenly a tremendous panther confronted him. Hearing a noise behind, he looked round, and, to his surprise and horror, saw another in a tree, which he fired at and killed just as it was in the act of springing upon him. The other one immediately escaped, much, as the darkey says, to his delight. The one killed was a female, and on opening her was found to contain two young. She measures seven feet, and the negro estimates the male to have been twice as large.

Jere Black.

From a New York Sun Letter.

Judge Black has been in Washington this winter, but has made only one great argument, so far. It is one of the finest things in Washington to see the understanding between Judge Black and the Supreme Court. The Judge has a quaint and peculiar status with the court; he is allowed a certain freedom in expression that nobody else dares attempt. Once those passing the Supreme Court room door heard the old lion roaring, and presently the sentence loomed out into the corridor: "Gird up your loins, Mr. Attorney-General, and answer me like a man!" The Attoreny-General not having wherewith to answer him, quaked in his shoes, and the Judges sat bold upright, electrified by the leonine voice, while the audience looked reverentially at Saul among the prophets.

A Steamer Saved by a Bag of Oil.

From the San Francisco Alta.

That vessels can be saved in a storm by the towing of perforated bags of oil astern has been fully demonstrated. The last case is that of the British steamer Stanmore, which arrived here from Queenstown. During the voyage the vessel encountered a heavy gale, the force of which, combined with the heavy seas, prevented the vessel from making headway and threatened to sink her. Seeing this, the master tried the efficacy of towing a bag of oil astern, with the most fortunate results. The force of the waves was broken and the steamer was saved. This simple measure is being tried oftener as these successful experiments are made known.

Constantly in the Land of Nod.

From the Newtown Bee.

Sherman W. Platt still remains in the half unconscious state in which he has been for some months. He gets up himself and eats something three or four times a day, but soon returns to his chair or bed without saying anything or seeming to recognize what is going on. This has been kept up for some five months, but he seems to lose little strength. The doctors consider it a singular case and seem to be able to render no help toward arousing the dormant man. They say the like was never known in this part of Connecticut before.

Extra Hazardous.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

The president of a Western insurance company has addressed the following note to one of its policy-holders:

"It has come to our knowledge that you have written several spring poems with the intention of offering them for sale to the public press. I write this to say that if you persist in your purpose it will work a forfeiture of your policy. You only pay the ordinary rates, and we always classify spring poets as 'extra hazardous.'"

A California Girl's Exercise.

From the Gilroy Valley Record.

A young lady who resides near Gilroy has been in poor health for some time past. Not long ago her mother offered her ten cents a scalp for squirrels and agreed to furnish the ammunition for shooting them besides. The young lady went to work with a will, is making money and regaining health. We are informed that last week she killed eighty-five squirrels.

CRIMINAL COURT.

A Dying Man Sent to the Penitentiary for Manslaughter.

More Testimony Offered by the State in the Rickert Murder Trial.

When Judge Waggoner ascended the bench in the Criminal Court this morning, Acting Circuit Attorney Jones stated that Reuben Starr, confined in jail on a charge of murder in the second degree, desired to enter a plea of guilty to manslaughter in the third degree, and under the circumstances as represented by Messrs. McEntire and Bass, attorneys for the defendant the plea would be accepted. An order to bring the prisoner before the bar was made and in a few minutes Deputy Sheriff Walters Oberbeck, Gibson and Blanchard entered the Criminal Court supporting a canvas stretcher on which the prisoner lay prostrate with rheumatism and scrofula. The stretcher, with its dying occupant, was laid on the floor in the center of the bar. Judge Van Waggoner descended from the bench and stood before the recumbent prisoner, while the Circuit Attorney and the defendant's attorneys questioned Starr as to his willingness to alter his plea. The plea of not guilty to murder in the second degree was withdrawn and a plea of guilty to manslaughter in the third degree entered. Judge Van Waggoner then said: "Reuben Starr, in accordance with the verdict the Court will sentence you to three years imprisonment, to stand committed until the sentence is complied with and the cost of this prosecution paid." The four deputies then took up the stretcher and carried Starr back to jail, while the court resumed the regular business. Starr was a river roustabout, and when in from a trip boarded at the Bethel House, on the levee.

On March 24, 1882, John Mays and another colored roustabout were computing pensions for a certain number of months. Starr attempted to decide the dispute, when he became involved in a wordy altercation with Mays. Hot words were exchanged and Mays rushed at Starr, who received him on the point of an open knife, inflicting a wound that proved fatal on the 4th of the following September at the City Hospital. Starr was arrested and placed in jail, when he was taken down with the disease which leaves him a cripple at death's door. Dr. Gib. W. Carson, the jail physician, stated that he entertained but slight hopes of Starr's recovery and feared that his convict's suit would soon be exchanged for a raiment of the grave.

THE RICKERT TRIAL.

To-day the trial of Edward Rickert for the killing of Mrs. Salina Wilson at Seventh and Chestnut streets, November 24th, 188', was resumed in the Criminal Court. The first witness called for the State was Mr. Leon F. Witzig, a reporter on the staff of the Globe-Democrat. He testified that he had known the defendant prior to the killing of Mrs. Wilson, and on one occasion had gone buggy riding with Rickert when he made certain statements about his relations with Mrs. Wilson. The defendant's attorneys objected to the testimony being admitted. Judge Jones stated the testimony was important to the State's case. It was desired to introduce this testimony, which might be followed up by proof to show why the homicide was committed. The defendant boarded with the deceased, and the testimony was important if jealousy was shown. Judge Van Waggoner admitted the evidence, and the witness stated that on one occasion Rickert produced a photograph, which he said was Mrs. Wilson's, his landlady. He said she was his friend, and he had a "soft snap." Her husband, who lived in Denver, sent her $40 every month, and she could always spare him some out of that. The witness said that he remarked that it was curious that he, Rickert, could get along without working, and Rickert replied that he felt at home at the house. On cross-examination he said that Rickert was speaking in high terms of Mrs. Wilson and did not say that they had ever quarreled or that he was jealous of any other man. No threats were made during this interview.

A HEARTLESS HOAX.

Over One Thousand Girls Fooled by a Bogus Advertisement.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 15.—An advertisement, of which the following is a copy, was published yesterday morning:

WANTED—Four lady copyists at wages $10 per week. Apply to Cornelius Morrison, 87 and 89 Wall st.

A similar advertisement, with the additional information that any age from fourteen to forty would suit, appeared in a German newspaper. Mr. Morrison is a member of the firm of Walt, Creighton & Morrison. Soon after the office of the firm was opened in the morning young girls and women began to arrive in considerable numbers in answer to the advertisement. Many of them were dressed in sealskin, while others were poorly clad and evidently in straitened circumstances. Old ladies came with their daughters, in some instances, to see that all was proper. The office of the firm was filled in a short time, and a great crowd of men and boys began to gather near it. The police were sent for, and the firm made an effort to stop the women and girls at least a block away from the office, to save them the mortification of being

THE SUBJECTS OF LAUGHTER

by about a thousand men and boys, who were gathered in the street. Many of the girls were without sufficient means to pay their car-fare home, and the firm disbursed $3 or $4 in that way. A number of merchants in the neighborhood were very indignant at the so-called joke and offered to make liberal subscriptions toward prosecuting the perpetrators. Mr. Morrison, in company with his counsel, called at the newspaper offices and secured a description of the person who ordered the advertisement inserted and also secured the original of it. The handwriting was apparently that of a clerk. A member of the firm said that if the advertisement had been for men and dogs he would have thought nothing of it, but as the subject so many poor woman to such a heartless joke was something that should be punished. Later in the day Mr. Morrison was apparently more inclined to consider the matter in

THE LIGHT OF A JOKE.

He was found by a Tribune reporter at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, seated at his desk with a stack of letters before him. "Oh," he said, "it was a hoax." He did not want any copyists. He was rather sorry he didn't, because some very handsome ladies had called. His partner, Mr. Creighton, was a married man and knew how to receive them. "I did not get down till 9 o'clock," said Mr. Morrison, "and then I found police guarding the doors, and a crowd lining the sidewalks. I believe the ladies began arriving at half-past five in the morning. There have been about a thousand of them here. We stationed police at Pearl street and two at our corner here to keep the crowd back, and to tell the poor ladies that it was a hoax. Such handsome ones, too. There were a great many Germans among them, and when they found out it they spoke some German I could not understand and backed out of the door. This office is forty feet square and it was full of them." Mr. Morrison then began tearing open the letters before him. There was about a hundred of them, some from Bayridge, Jersey City and other places, all applying for positions. Mr. Morrison made some running comments upon them. "Here is one from a widow with three children. She don't want the position so much as a comfortable home. Dear, dear, if I were a married man I would know what to do. Here are two or three with stamps enclosed, begging for early attention. Here is one saying she will call to-morrow. Good gracious, I will tell Creighton to come down early and receive her." Presently Mr. Morrison came across a note written in a pretty handwriting and containing the statement that the writer was a blonde, and had beautiful teeth, and never, no

WAS A HOAX

Mr. Morrison sighed wearily and handed it to his brother. "I believe I know who wrote that," said that gentleman, "it is probably the same man who put in the advertisement."

Juries Sitting in Heavy Damage Cases—Collapse—Explosion—Car Dangers.

The will of Eliza R. Jones, mother of Judge Wm. C. Jones, bearing date April 16, 1881, was admitted to probate this morning. Gabriel S. Jones, of Chester, Ill., is appointed trustee of the property for the benefit of the husband, Cuthbert T. Jones, and the daughter, Susan L. Jones. At the death of Cuthbert T. Jones, the executor is directed to distribute the estate as follows: Mary E. Bond, daughter, $500; Wm. C. Jones, son, $440, in satisfaction of all indebtedness; Peyton C. Jones, son, $1,000; residue to the daughter Susan. Wm. C. Jones is appointed executor.

Damage suits were in progress to-day before three of the five divisions of the Circuit Court. In Judge Lubke's court the Mound City Paint and Color Company's case again, and J. A. Conlon, the contractor, was before the jury. This is a twenty thousand dollar claim for damages by reason of the collapse of the Boucher building adjoining the Kraft, Holmes & Co. structure. Conlon was employed to protect the Boucher building, tenanted by the Mound City Paint and Color Company, during the excavating for the foundations of Kraft, Holmes & Co.'s building. Mr. Lynds was engaged upon the work of excavation, and Archibald, a subcontractor, was engaged to do some of the work for Conlon. The underpinning was commenced before the Boucher building had been properly braced up and it fell into the excavation.

AN EXPLOSION TEST.

John Hewitt's damage case for $25,000 against the Laclede Gas Light Company is before Judge Barclay and a jury. This is a case of injury sustained by an employe who went into the company's test-room at the works on Main and Howard streets for the purpose of testing the illuminating power of the gas. He applied a match and an explosion followed, blowing out the walls and seriously injuring Hewitt. He had no knowledge of any escape of gas, and had only been three days engaged in the work connected with the test-room.

In Judge Horner's court, before a special jury, a second trial of the Muehlhausen damage suit against the St. Louis Railroad Company, Fifth Street Line, is reached. The jury at the former trial disagreed. The Muehlhausens are parents of a deceased lad who fell from the front platform of a car near the Wild Hunters' terminus and was crushed under the wheels. The boy was having a free ride and there were no guard rails, as the car was about to be reversed for the return journey, and the gates had been temporarily removed. A sudden turn of the car on the track near Chippewa street jerked the boy off the platform.

Zehe and against John H. Bobb, Cora B. Taylor and James K. Taylor, her husband, Philip M. Bobb, Charles H. Bobb and Irene Bobb,

I have levied upon and seized all the right, title and interest of the defendant Cora B. Taylor in and to the following described real estate, situated in the city of St. Louis and State of Missouri, described as follows, to-wit:

A lot of ground in city block No. 189, fronting 22 feet on the west line of 8th street and extending westwardly at the same width 80 feet 2½ inches more or less, being bounded on the south by a line 42 feet and 8 inches northwardly from and parallel to Walnut street, on the west by a lot conveyed by Charles Bobb to Henry Parker, and on the north by the lot allotted to Cora B. Taylor for her 3-20 interest which was partitioned to her during the life of her father, Chas Bobb.

And I will, on

MONDAY, TUE 2D DAY OF APRIL, 1883,

between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the east front door of the Court-house, in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, sell at public auction, for cash, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest, claim, estate and property of the above named Cora B. Taylor of, in and to the above described property, to satisfy her proportion (4-20) of said execution and costs.
